PLANS BY FIELLY
FOR A BIG EVENT

FIGURES ON MARCH EXHIBITION FOR BIGGEST MILL YET

New Orleans and Carson Have Had a Like Event in Their History.

By EDDIE SMITH.

The fight carnival that Mike Relly has planned for the March attraction at Tonopah bids fair to being one of the biggest events that has ever been pulled off in the history of pugilism. New Orleans and Carson City has each had a like event in which the heavy-weight championship was contested for and lost by the holders of the titles. Dan Stewart promoted the first Nevada fight carnival, and it was through his efforts that the Nevada legislature made it possible to hold finish fights. At that time Jim Corbett and Bob Fitzsimmons had been chafing all over the country trying to get a place that would allow them to fight. The men had agreed to meet at several other places, but each time the authorities had called a halt to the game before the men had a chance to settle the dispute over the championship. Corbett said that Fitz was afraid to meet him, and Fitz said worse things about the Native Son. At last when Stewart had things arranged so that the men could settle their difference and the match had been made, interest in the scrap ran high, and it is doubtful if any championship fight ever created so much enthusiasm. For this reason Stewart no doubt had the best card for his feature event. The remaining two attractions, however, did not create as much interest as was expected.

While Relly's main attraction between Gans and Britt for the light-weight championship will not in any way equal the main attraction of the former carnival as a drawing card, the remaining bouts that he is trying to sign up with Joe Thomas vs. Hugo Kelly and Jimmy Gardner vs. Muelo Melody will, even things up. Then, too, Relly is laying out a much greater amount of money in the way of purses than did Stewart. That the Tonopah fight-fest will be a success is arranged seems assured. Arrangements for the Gans-Herman fight were as near perfect as it was possible to have them. Every trifling detail was carefully looked after and when the time came to open the doors of the arena everything was in perfect order. It has been informed that Relly is an old-time circus man, and this may account for his prudent handling of the affair.

THOMAS WILL SPLIT.

Joe Thomas has telegraphed Manager Relly at Tonopah that he will split the difference with Kelly and meet him at 156 pounds at ringside. Thomas originally wanted 134, but Kelly insists that he is unable to make such a low weight, and stuck out for 158 ringside. If this match is finally made it should prove a dandy. At 156 pounds Kelly should be strong, and as Thomas will be trying to put on weight in his training instead of taking it off, the men should enter the ring in perfect condition and be fit and ready to make the fight of their life. Hugo Kelly has in his previous contests proven that he is a fighter of marked ability. He has a "draw" with Tommy Burns, who gave Jack O'Brien the fight of his career, and a ten-round decision over the Quaker, which alone would stamp him a dangerous opponent for any of the champions of today. His best recommendation to fame is in my opinion the fact that Jack O'Brien, whom nobody ever accused of being a fool, never expresses any desire again to meet the slashing Italian with the Irish name in order that he might erase the blot on his record. Joe Thomas has also proven that he is worthy of reckoning in any kind of company.

He is a slashing fighter with a good punch always ready to exchange wallop with an opponent. The winner of this contest would be heralded as the middle-weight champion.

ASTUTE MANAGER.

For many years Jimmy Coffroth has had the distinction of being one of the cleverest men connected with the boxing game in America, and when the astute James took charge of the business affairs of Jimmy Britt many of the so-called wise men looked to see some sharp tricks sprung in the arranging of the match with Gans. Now that the match is made and the weight agreed upon is 153 pounds two hours before the contest, these same people think that Ben Bell, who looked after Gans' interests in the signing of the articles, outwitted the clever promoter. As Britt has always said that if he again met Gans the weight would have to be 131 pounds ringside, the general impression is that Joe has gained a vital point in getting two hours' rest after weighing. From information that I have received, however, it would appear that James Edward has no easy time in getting down to 133 pounds at ringside and that when Coffroth agreed to the weighing two hours before the contest he was not so foolish as it would appear. To see Britt is to convince one that he has taken on considerable weight during the past year and that it will be no easy task for the native son to get to the required weight.

Indications point to the fact that boxing is doomed in Denver and that it may soon be closed down. As usual it is not the game that is making the trouble, it is the promoters. Reddy Gallagher runs one club and Otto Fiato runs the opposition club, these two bright fellows have had some disagreement between themselves, and as Fiato is sporting editor of one of the papers he has used it to knock Gallagher's fights. Reddy, on the other hand, is backed by the two remaining papers, and each time Fiato announces a card they knock his contest. This has been the history of most every place where the game has been stopped; rival promoters quarrel and circulate fake stories about their enemy, and sooner or later people who do not understand the ways of the game step in and make a protest, and the lid is closed down on the sport. Let us hope that Fiato and Gallagher will come to their senses before they are successful in closing the Rocky Mountain town down on the marly art.

YANKEES ARE PLACED FIRST

NEW YORK, Jan. 12.—Warren E. Schutt, the former Cornell University distance runner and former winner of the intercollegiate championship in the mile run, is visiting this country and talks entertainingly of athletic conditions in the English universities as compared with American institutions.

Schutt is at present in his second year at Oxford as a holder of a Rhodes scholarship, which he won in the first examination held under the terms of the Cecil Rhodes bequest.

"The possibility of arranging an international track meet or cross-country race between English and American universities has been recently discussed at Oxford and Cambridge, but the conclusion was reached that the trip was out of the question, on account of the expense attached to it. Should sufficient inducements be offered, however, whereby the expenses of the English runners might be in part defrayed it is probable that they would come to America."

Schutt believes that an American college team would undoubtedly defeat an English team in any international meet held between the two countries, but that, should a cross-country race be held, the Englishmen would certainly be successful. He attributes this superiority to early training. He says:

"When a young English boy is in a preparatory school he starts cross-country work at the age of 11 or 13, and when he reaches the university he is in a high state of development. The English system of training, being the same in all parts of the country, enables a man entering one university to continue his training with but a leastening many of the ideas he has gained in preparatory school."

INDOOR WORK
INJURES ATHLETES

NEW YORK, Jan. 12.—Manny Long, the world's record holder at the quarter mile, is out with an explanation of why our athletes only last four or five years, giving the reason as too much indoor running. Comparing the indoor and outdoor seasons, we find that the former is fast outstripping its rival, both in the number of meetings held and the size of the entry lists. It is safe to assert that in the period from November 1 to April 1 the athletic meets will average at least one a week. The great reason for this is because the crowds are larger, and the managers can afford to "develop" the trophies to a degree seldom equalled by the promoters of outdoor sports. The fact of having sports every week also attracts more athletes to the indoor season, because, once in form, they are able to get into a race much oftener than during the summer. Last summer our local athletic season was all out of proportion. During June, July and August there was a dearth of meets—not from lack of interest on the part of the athletes, but because few of the clubs ran at that time. All the season was crammed into a short period of time, extending from August 15 to September 20, during which time the season was tremendously boom in the sport.

On account of the great growth in indoor athletics it is practically assured that the Amateur Athletic Union will shortly come to be placed on its feet and books a complete list of the best indoor floor performances at all the standard events. Any indoor record performance in the future will be officially recognized, as are the outdoor marks now. At the present time we have "indoor" records pretty generally known to all athletes of athletic sports, but they are not so well known as the outdoor records. For instance, we all know that Fanning has run the fastest indoor "mile" (4:14.1); Hixman the fastest "two-mile" (12:12.2); and so on, but the books in Mr. Sullivan's office do not contain these marks as official indoor records.

FIGHTERS TRAIN AND SIGN FOR A BIG BATTLE

JOE GANS NOW RULES FIGHT ROOST

PLEADS FOR TIME TO ENTER THE CHARMED CIRCLE.

Would Battle for Charity for Chance to Make Himself Good.

By W. W. NAUGHTON

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 12.—Nothing succeeds like success.

A short half year ago Joe Gans, like Bill Bailey, of coon song memory was singing:

"Ain't it a shame, a measly shame To keep yo' baby out in de rain."

Battling Nelson, the Durable Dane, ruled the roost in the lightweight division and Jimmy Britt was the next best card. Gans tried in vain to break into the charmed circle. It cut him to the quick to think that men inferior to him in the fighting line were working out the championship problem and ignoring him entirely and that the public turned a deaf ear to his protests and thereby led him to suppose that he was getting his just deserts.

My, how Joe pleaded. He would fight either Britt or Nelson with a jury of sporting writers to pass upon the merits of his work, and if things looked the least out of line he would be content to have his share of the prize money turned over to charity. He would allow his opponent, be he Britt or Nelson, to take the lion's share of the plunder irrespective of the result of the contest, or he would undertake to stop either man within a given time and forfeit everything in case of failure. Any old deal, in fact, so long as he was given a chance to get back into the fold and show that he was the best of the 133 pounders.

When matters looked blackest for Joseph, up bobbed Tex Rickard with his $30,000 offer. Nelson accepted after insisting upon a top-sided division of the purse and imposing other hard terms on Gans and the match was on. Gans won and now the whole aspect of affairs is changed.

Gans is the attraction and the dictator and Britt and Nelson have to do the clamoring. If either of them wants a match he has to abide by Joe's conditions or make room for some one else.

GANS' TWO FIGHTS.

In the two matches Gans has made since he won from Nelson, the colored boxer has had his own way as to weight. He fought Kid Herman at 133 pounds "two hours before," and he has signed with Britt on the same terms.

This suggests that Bat Nelson will have to knock under on the question of avoidpups if he really hankers for another bout with Gans. As already stated, Joe is the high card, especially in Nevada, where fat purses grow on the sage bushes, and as long as the gold camp matchmakers can command Gans' services they will not delay the game if any prospective opponent of Gans is slow in making up his mind.

There is quite a promising array of lightweights just at present and it may act as a spur to Nelson to know that a slight hitch may end in Cyclone Thompson, Dick Hyland, or maybe Tommy Murphy or Amby McGarry, being summoned in haste to take his place.

DEALING IN FUTURES.

But this is dealing in futures. Gans has a pretty stiff fence to climb before he comes to Battling Nelson, and if anything I have written so far seems to bear the suggestion that I look for Gans to defeat Britt, the only explanation I can offer just now is that I have been guilty of a falling which is quite common, namely, that

STIFF FENCE TO CLIMB TO NELSON

EXPERT DOPES NEGRO TO DEFEAT JIMMY BRITT IN THEIR FIGHT.

January to Be Off Month in Fight Circles in San Francisco—Nothing in Sight.

His day dream is another tussle with Nelson, and he knows that to qualify for it he has to step across Joe Gans' prostrate body, as it were. Last, but not least, there is really, truly, bad blood between the chocolate-hued fighter and the white skin. Gans said their other fight was crooked, and every punch Jimmy will aim at the negro will say "It wasn't." As a rule there is too much at stake in championship fights to let grudges have sway, but if mutual dislike doesn't add steam to the smashes, Gans and Britt will inflict upon each other, I'll miss my guess.

JANUARY OFF MONTH.

The month of January will not see any glove contests in San Francisco, and it is quite possible that February will be innocent of ring strife, too. Whether there will be anything in the pugilistic line thereafter will depend upon the law-makers at present session at Sacramento.

It is said that no less than three of the assemblymen are carrying anti-boxing measures in their inside pockets and, while the promoters here affect to believe that all will be well, it is plainly to be seen that they are on the rack.

If threats are kept and a prohibitive measure is passed, McCarey of Los Angeles, will go down in the swirl along with Levy, Coffroth, and the rest. And if the dark day really comes, how sorry will be Tommy Burns and Jack O'Brien that they didn't accept the $25,000 offered them for a finish fight on Railroad Day at Rhyolite?

The era of suspense will continue until the second week in March, by which time the Assembly and Legislature will have finished their labors. If, before that time, the tip is given out that the sport of the mitt is doomed in California, there will surely be a wholesale cutting down of purses in Nevada. The Rhyolite boomers, if they do not make their contracts meanwhile, will be in a position to add to the gaiety of their railroad opening at far less cost for pugilistic entertainment.

HOPPE GIVES UP BILLIARD TITLE

NEW YORK, Jan. 12.—Willie Hoppe, the 19-year-old billiard champion of the most difficult game played by the world's most famous experts—precipitated a dispute with the powers in the billiard world by announcing the forfeiture of his 18.1 title to George Sutton of Chicago. Sutton also holds the 18.2 championship. Hoppe declines to play under the auspices of the big billiard manufacturers and says Sutton is the best in the business, and he is willing to surrender the title to the Chicagoan without a contest. Hoppe claims that the Brunswick-Balke-Collender Company has not used him fairly in paying for exhibitions, etc.

Hoppe has called off his matches with Sutton for the 18.1 and 18.2 titles, declares that he will not participate in any tournament, and throws down the gauntlet to the Brunswick-Balke-Collender Company which is recognized as the billiard "trust." He sails next Saturday for Amsterdam, Holland, and will not return to New York before next June or July.

The dispute disarranges all the plans that had been laid for a series of matches to decide the world's championship of the two most difficult styles of game. Hoppe says he will refuse to give up the diamond trophy, the 18.1 championship emblem, to any one except Sutton. He claims Sutton's right to the 18.1 title is denied by the billiard company and plans are being discussed for an open 18.1 tournament in February, the winner to be recognized as the champion of the world.

POOL ROOMS TRIMMED BADLY

SPOKANE, Jan. 12.—The poolrooms south and east of Spokane controlled by Colonel W. E. Applegate, who is racing a stable of horses and operating a book at the Oakland racetrack, were beaten out of thousands of dollars within the past few weeks by an organized band of surething men.

The gang operated by getting the results of the Oakland races to Spokane by direct telephone wire from the coast, and then "flushing" them by long-distance telephone to confederates in Butte and other cities. By this method the confederates placed in the inland cities were able to get the results by phone from five to ten minutes before the results could be relayed through by telephone.

The rooms in the Montana city probably got the worst trouncing, as they were caught heavy on a 100 to 1 principal's two of them being stationed in Spokane and one at Butte, while two commissioners placed the money, I. L. Hildebrandt, manager of the Warlock Turf Exchange, who represents the Applegate interests in the Northwest, admits that the gang got away with a big roll.

"They did not pick up any easy money in Spokane," Hildebrandt added, "but they certainly did some funny stunts at Butte, receiving the information from Spokane from Spokane, also the last week in December, when several three-legged ones at juley prices were sent over. The Spokane and Butte men turning the trick are well known to our men. They know we are wise; also that we can't touch them, because they are outside the pale of the law."

SWIMMING BY HIGH SCHOOL BOYS

The first inter-class swimming tournament held for a long time by the Oakland High school, was the main feature at Piedmont Baths Friday afternoon. Under the many difficult conditions the affair as a whole was an excellent success.

In the relay the seniors swam a lap short, so they did not place. All the races were divided among the seniors and freshmen for first place honors.

Elliott easily took the 50-yard dash and the 220-yard dash, while Dunn handily captured the 100-yard dash.

In the 440-yards, Cahill, after a hard swim, won out in the last lap. Craig, the second place man, swam an excellent race.

The 880-yard race was easily taken by Hartwell.

The final score was:

Freshmen, 33; Seniors, 10; Juniors, 6, and Sophomores 6.

The results were:

50-yard dash—Elliott, senior, won; Stroud, freshman, second, and Dunn, freshman, third.

100-yard dash—Dunn, freshman, won; Burns, freshman, second, and Roberts, junior, third.

REIGN OF TERROR IN RUSSIA FOLLOWS PLOT TO KILL EX-MINISTER COUNT WITTE

(Special to THE TRIBUNE by the Hearst News Service over longest leased wire in the world.)

ST. PETERSBURG, JAN. 12.

—THE KILLING OF FOUR POLICEMEN AND TWO SOLDIERS IN A RAID ON A MEETING-PLACE OF TERRORISTS MARKS A NEW PHASE IN THE REVOLUTIONARY MOVEMENT IN RUSSIA AND ONE WHICH IS GIVING THE AUTHORITIES NO LITTLE CONCERN. HERETOFORE IT HAS NOT BEEN THE CUSTOM OF THE SUSPECTS TO RESIST THE POLICE OPENLY WITH ARMS.

IN VIEW OF THE BLOODY BATTLE OF TODAY THE TERRORISTS ARE ENCOURAGED AND DECLARE THAT THE POLICE MUST PREPARE TO KILL AND BE KILLED WHENEVER A RAID IS MADE.

TODAY'S TAGIC OCCURRENCE WAS THE RESULT OF A PLOT TO KILL COUNT WITTE. IN SOME MANNER THE FORMER PREMIER WAS INFORMED THAT TWO MEN HAD BEEN DESIGNATED TO KILL HIM AND SECURED PICTURES OF THE "EXECUTIONERS." WHEN HE SAW THE ORIGINALS OF THE PICTURES LOITERING ABOUT HIS HOUSE HE NOTIFIED THE POLICE. THE MEN WERE PLACED UNDER SURVEILLANCE.

IT IS UNDERSTOOD THAT IT WAS ON THE SUGGESTION OF WITTE HIMSELF THAT THEY WERE NOT IMMEDIATELY ARRESTED BUT WERE FOLLOWED IN HOPES THE POLICE WOULD BE LED TO THE HEADQUARTERS OF THE PLOTTERS.

THEY WERE FOLLOWED TO THEIR HOMES IN OKLITA QUARTER AND A FORCE OF POLICEMEN WERE THROWN ABOUT THE HOUSE TO PREVENT THE ESCAPE OF ANY OF THE INMATES.

ACCOUNTS DIFFER AS TO WHAT HAPPENED WHEN AN ATTEMPT WAS MADE TO FORCE ENTRANCE TO THE HOUSE. ONE REPORT HAS IT THAT THERE WERE MANY MEN IN THE PLACE AND THAT THEY DROVE THE POLICE AWAY, DISAPPEARING BEFORE REINFORCEMENTS COULD BE SECURED. THE MOST GENERALLY ACCEPTED STORY IS THAT THERE WERE BUT FOUR OF THE TERRORISTS

PRESENT. WHEN THE POLICE BATTERED IN THE DOOR, THE TERRORISTS, WHO WERE WELL ARMED, OPENED A MURDEROUS FIRE ON THE POLICE WHO WERE BUNCHED ABOUT THE DOOR.

MEN FELL RAPIDLY AND THE POLICE GAVE WAY. AS THEY DID SO THE TERRORISTS MADE A DESPERATE DASH UNDER COVER OF A SMASHING FUSILADE OF BULLETS WHICH LITERALLY CUT A PATH FOR THEM THROUGH THE POLICE LINES. BEFORE THE BEWILDERED POLICE RECOVERED THEMSELVES SUFFICIENTLY TO USE THEIR WEAPONS WITH ANY DEGREE OF ACCURACY, THE MEN HAD DISAPPEARED.

A SEARCH OF THEIR QUARTERS, IT IS SAID, NOT ONLY REVEALED A WELL-FORMED PLOT TO KILL COUNT WITTE, BUT A LIST OF OTHER NOTED MEN WAS FOUND, ALL OF WHOM WERE DOOMED TO DEATH. PAPERS WERE ALSO FOUND, IT IS UNDERSTOOD, WHICH WILL LEAD TO THE ARREST OF A NUMBER OF ACTIVE TERRORISTS.

WHEN THE FIRING HAD CEASED IT WAS FOUND THAT FOUR OFFICERS HAD BEEN KILLED, THREE OTHERS SERIOUSLY, IF NOT FATALLY WOUNDED, WHILE SEVERAL OTHERS RECEIVED SLIGHT WOUNDS. HARDLY ONE OF THE PARTY ABOUT THE DOOR PASSED UNSCATHED

THROUGH THE STORM OF BULLETS. ONE OF THE REVOLVERS LEFT BY THE TERRORISTS WAS FOUND TO BE OF THE LATEST AUTOMATIC PATTERN AND A FAR SUPERIOR WEAPON TO THE RUSSIAN SERVICE REVOLVER. IT WAS LOADED WITH EXPLOSIVE BULLETS, AND THE WOUNDS OF THE SOLDIERS INDICATED THAT THE SAME KIND OF BULLETS WERE USED IN THE FIGHT.

THIS BATTLE COMING UPON THE HEELS OF THE ASSASSINATION OF GENERAL PAVLOFF AND COLONEL ANDRIEFF HAS CAUSED A VERITABLE PANIC IN OFFICIAL RUSSIA. NO OFFICIAL FROM THE CZAR DOWN FEELS SAFE. THE ASSASSINA-

TIONS OF MINOR OFFICIALS IN THE PROVINCES HAS ASSUMED APPALLING PROPORTIONS, AND DESPITE THE EFFORTS OF THE AUTHORITIES TO PREVENT NEWS OF THESE CONSTANT KILLINGS REACHING THE PUBLIC, ENOUGH IS LEARNED TO INDICATE THAT THE WHOLE EMPIRE IS COVERED BY THE OPERATIONS OF THE TERRORISTS.

THE PANIC REACHED SUCH PROPORTIONS THAT PEREMPTORY ORDERS, DEvised BY THE CZAR HIMSELF, HAVE BEEN ISSUED THAT NO MERCY IS TO BE SHOWN SUSPECTED TERRORISTS. THEY ARE TO BE EXECUTED AND TRIED AFTERWARD.

THE EAST-BOUND FLYER WRECKED AT AUBURN

An Open Switch Puts the Passengers of the Train in Serious Jeopardy, but Nobody Is Hurt.

AUBURN, Cal., Jan. 12.—The east bound flyer, train No. 2, was wrecked at Auburn today, caused by a switch being left open by a brakeman on a west bound freight train. The passenger train crashed into the freight, which was standing on a track waiting for No. 2 to pass. The passengers were all thrown from their seats, but none were injured.

CREATION OF A BIG CHICAGO PACKING TRUST

The Combination Controls Business Which Is Worth a Million a Day.

CHICAGO, Jan. 12.—The packing commerce entirely, though several years have elapsed before his affairs permit this step. All of the big concerns at the stockyards had merged into one tremendous machine with the exception of one house—Schwarzchild & Sulzberger. The tentative agreement of capitalization has been fixed at $500,000,000. The allotment of trade zones to non-comers represented in the combination is now in progress. In a short time each house will be doing business in its own exclusive domain. Under the new deal Louis F. Swift becomes the packing king of Chicago. J. Ogden Armour, it was authentically stated, is preparing to retire from

NO INAUGURAL BALL THIS YEAR

SACRAMENTO, Jan. 12.—It has at last been definitely decided that there will be no inaugural ball in honor of Governor Gillett this year because of the death of his father and illness in his family. As a substitute, two elaborate functions will be given by the people of this city. About the first of February a reception will be given at the Crocker Art Gallery to the State officers and legislators and their families. About two weeks later there will be a banquet at Turner's hall for the same guests and for local subscribers.

CUBAN OPPOSITION TO PROTECTORATE

HAVANA, Jan. 12.—Threatening editorials continue to appear in Liberal organs against those favoring an American protectorate over Cuba. La Luchas says it is a vengeance a mad dog does not rise up to wreak vengeance on the unspeakable agitators for American control. It is regarded as a complete proof of the assertion that the Cubans are against the protectorate. The Daily Telegraph says: "No one, unless a coward," need be disturbed by La Luchas's attacks. Each according to his conscience should continue to believe and avow that the protectorate is essential to Cuba's continued national existence.

WRECKED ON NORTHERN COAST

PORT TOWNSEND, Wash., Jan. 12.—Steamer Alice Gertrude, Captain Charles Kallstrom, which for the past fifteen years has been operated on the North Bay mail route, acknowledged to be one of the most tempestuous and dangerous steamboats runs in the Northwest, and which never before met material accident, is a total wreck tonight on Ship Point reef, extending out from the shore of Chatham bay. The vessel struck shortly before midnight last night during the progress of a terrific windstorm accompanied by a heavy fall of snow. All night she crunched on her rocky prison and at daylight, when relief had reached the scene, an easterly swell prevailing made it impossible to approach. In the interim a line had been shot ashore from the steamer and she was moored to the beach. The heavy swell continued without abatement even after a break up. Shortly previous to voyage in the cutter last Friday in a harbor miles from the scene of the accident after an exceedingly tempestuous voyage in which it was impossible to make headway toward Chatham bay in the raging storm.

TERRIFIC BLIZZARD IS RAGING ON THE WESTERN PRAIRIES

At Least One Thousand Passengers Bound for the Pacific Coast Are Stalled by It Near the Mississippi River.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Jan. 12.—Ten Pacific Coast trains, carrying at least 1000 persons, are stalled on the Western prairies as a result of the great blizzard now raging from the Mississippi River to the Pacific Coast.

The Great Northern schedule to the coast has been shattered and it is impossible to locate trains. The trains of Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, known as No. 2, have been abandoned. Where passengers are and what is their condition are questions the road cannot answer. Some hope is held out that the passengers on Wednesday's train may reach the Twin Cities some time Sunday.

No. 4 train of Thursday and Friday has been indefinitely postponed by the Great Northern.

Northern Pacific railroad officials declare that they had track of all of their trains on their road today. At noon, however, coast trains due at 7 this morning had not arrived and no definite hour for their arrival was set. The coast trains, too, due Friday had not yet arrived.

Railroad officials declare there is no danger for passengers. The cars are outfitted with fuel and food to withstand long storm sieges and 1000 persons who today gaze at whirling storms from car windows suffer only annoyance of delay and worry of knowing that their friends and relatives are worrying.

Officials at the Great Northern office today declare that all towns where shortages of coal had been reported supplies had been sent within the past few days and that there need be no fear of suffering from lack of fuel during the storm.

ESCAPE DEATH ON BRIDGE

Trestle Falls Shortly After Crowded Trolley Car Passes.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 12.—A portion of the trestle carrying the tracks of the United Railroads over Glen canyon, about a half mile north of Sunnyside, collapsed yesterday afternoon. The accident caused a blockade and compelled the passengers of the Guerrero street and Ocean View trolley cars to walk through mud in order to make connections. Cars were run from either end of the damaged bridge. A force of 150 mechanics and laborers were put to work to repair the damage. The bridge is about 400 feet long and spans the canyon at the approach of Glen Park. The piles gave way and caused the trestle for a distance of about 100 feet in the center of the bridge to collapse. A car had just passed, crowded with 200 passengers, when the timbers snapped and a portion of the bridge fell into the creek.

It is believed that the heavy storm caused the piling to give way, resulting in the collapse of a portion of the bridge. It is expected that repairs will be made within a day or two, so that the cars may again cross the canyon. No vehicle travel was permitted on the structure, which is a private right of way of the United Railroads.

COLORADO FIEND HANGED

McGarvey Pays the Penalty of Murdering His Over Tender Jailer.

CANYON CITY, Colo., Jan. 12.—John McGarvey, 23 years old, was hanged in the penitentiary at 7:30 tonight for the murder of Edward Innis, jailer of the county jail at Grand Junction, two months ago.

McGarvey was originally arrested for burglarizing a Grand Junction warehouse and selling his plunder. For this he was sentenced to a term in the penitentiary.

A well known citizen of Grand Junction interceded for McGarvey, and he was released. McGarvey's new friends then gave him employment. Soon after his release McGarvey criminally and brutally assaulted the twelve-year-old daughter of his benefactor. He was again jailed. Edward Innis, the jailer, was an old friend of the prisoner, and gave him the privileges of a trusty.

About 4 o'clock on the afternoon of the murder, McGarvey, while preparing supper, and while Innis was down on his knees, with his hands grasping the iron of a cell watching the prisoners within playing cards, McGarvey crept up behind the jailer and struck him over the head with a stick of firewood. He then took the jailer's revolver and kept, but before leaving he struck Innis twice more, killing him.

SAN FRANCISCO FIRMS COMING TO OAKLAND

They Are All Looking for Suitable Locations to Establish Branch Houses Here.

"The leading clothiers and dry goods houses of San Francisco, as it was before the big fire," said a well-informed dry goods man who has had experience on both sides of the bay, "are all seeking locations for the establishment of branch houses in Oakland. When S. N. Wood & Co. secured the Davis Block," he added, "Brown Brothers, their competitors, had to hustle. They will be here, because they can't help themselves. And now that Roos Brothers are likely to be located on the southeast corner of Broadway and Twelfth streets, Raphaels are sure to come.

"It is a matter well-known to the trade," he added, "that the Emporium, O'Connor, Moffat & Co., the White House, the City of Paris and the Samuels Lace House are all seeking suitable locations on this side of the bay for the following reasons: First—The trade they formerly controlled has been scattered and the major part of it is now permanently located on the Alameda county shore. Secondly—The population is so scattered in San Francisco what there is left of it, that much of their custom there is being distributed among other houses. Thirdly—They realize that if they want to hold the trade which they formerly possessed, they must follow it to the eastern shore of the bay, and, inasmuch as most of their former San Francisco customers have bought homes and are permanently located in and around Oakland, that they must follow them to this side. These firms have found through experience that the trade will not follow them and that to recover it they must put themselves in touch with their former customers, and that such can be done only by establishing branch houses in Oakland."

This statement confirms the rumors that have been current in this city for several weeks past regarding the plans of the leading retail dealers of San Francisco and it is corroborated from other reliable sources.

First—The trade they formerly controlled has been scattered and the major part of it is now permanently located on the Alameda county shore.

FIRST INDIAN IN SENATE IS REPUBLICAN FROM KANSAS

Charles Curtis, an Original American and Remnant of the Kaw Tribe.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12.—Kansas is to have the distinction of being the first State to be represented in the United States Senate by an Indian.

Charles Curtis, who has just been nominated by the Republican legislative caucus for that office, is an aboriginal of the Kaw tribe, which is fast fading away. Both Mr. Curtis and his children received allotments when the Indian lands were parcelled out by the government.

Mr. Curtis is strictly a self-made man. In his youth he was in turn a newsboy on the streets of Topeka, a "peanut butcher," a horse jockey and a cab driver. He gained a smattering of law by hard study while driving a hack, and was admitted to the bar. He was soon elected county attorney, and later sent to Congress, mainly through the votes of those who had been his patrons in his youthful business ventures.

He will begin a full six-year term on March 4, which marks the expiration of the brief service of Senator Benson, who was appointed by the Governor of Kansas to fill Burton's unexpired term. He has been a member of the House of Representatives for fourteen consecutive years.

LAD KILLS GIRL WHILE AT PLAY

Boy Shoots Cousin Dead, Did Not Know That the Gun Was Loaded

COLOPADO SPRINGS, C. I. Jan 17.—Hold up your hands or I will kill you, said the boy, shouting at his cousin, who was sitting on the ground. The boy, who was about 15 years old, was playing with a gun. He did not know that the gun was loaded. He fired the gun, and the bullet struck his cousin in the chest. The boy was arrested and charged with murder.

RANCE EXCITED OVER POPE'S MESSAGE

PARIS, Jan 17.—Now that there is no longer any doubt that the Pope is in France, the majority of the French clergy are heartily rejoicing. The Pope's message to the French people, which was received yesterday, was a source of great joy. The Pope's message was a message of peace and reconciliation. It was a message that was long overdue.

AUGUSTUS HEINZE'S BANK VENTURES

NEW YORK, Jan 12.—As a climax to a week that saw the absorption of two important financial banks among other things, the financial world is looking for a new leader. Augustus Heinze, who has been a prominent figure in the financial world for many years, is now being considered as a potential leader. Heinze's bank ventures have been a source of much speculation and interest.

SINEWS OF WAR.

As he was elected after all, said the editor of the New York Times, the war is now a reality. The sinews of war are being tested. The war is a test of the strength of the nations. The war is a test of the strength of the human spirit. The war is a test of the strength of the human race.

CAPITAL AND LABOR HOLD A LOVE FEAST

Under the Patronage of Society Their Views Are Freely and Openly Expressed.

CHICAGO, Jan 12.—Capitol and labor tonight nestled in the lap of society and discussed their relative positions. Capital was represented on the program by Franklin MacVeagh, Seth Low and August Belmont. Labor was represented by Grand Chief Warren S. Stone of the Brotherhood of Engineers, President W. D. Mahon of the Amalgamated Street Railway Employees, and incidentally by Miss Gertrude Beeks, who spoke somewhat from both standpoints. Society was represented by Mrs. Potter Palmer. The hosts were brought together for the stated purpose of forming a branch for Chicago of the national civil federation. They did not indicate when the organization would be made, and adjourned and the lunch and punch after hearing the chairman and five other speakers tell what the three thought of each other.

A REMARKABLE MEETING.
All of this took place in a palace. It took place in a marble mansion where the turreted walls kept guard over the fashionable like show drive. Mrs. Palmer was the hostess of both the men that have come to play such a part in the American stage.

She, with the other representatives of society, looked on while the gigantic factors in the nation's progress looked each other in the eye and stated candidly their views. The meeting was a remarkable one. The time left off the evening clothes.

A REMARKABLE GATHERING.
The gathering was also remarkable. Men from the learned professions were there. Employers of labor who had ratings that indicated that millions were their shooks hands with the once. There had aside overalls for the once. There presented the same inviting aspect as would the floor of a skating rink to a novice.

The spirit of the gathering, as taken from the address of money, was that the promoters desired to promote good feeling between the worker and his employer.

THE HAND OF FELLOWSHIP.
There was no suggestion of arbitrage of difficulties. That method of settlement was expressly disclaimed as a purpose. The suggestion was that the members of the one element should approach the other in a spirit of conciliation that would create a basic feeling of mutual interest and would make strikes impossible and difficulties infrequent.

To this general iridescent dream there was no tangible path. The method of the time and the place and the method of the approach of one section to the other was given a hint. The end was held up as a thing to be desired, but the means to attain this end did not appear between them was held for the discussion. The introduction of the members who had come to listen to the talk. There Seth Low and August Belmont of New York and Chicago financiers and millionaires.

MRS. PALMER AS HOSTESS.
Mrs. Palmer governed in style that was in keeping with the occasion of the party. She was the hostess of the party. She was the hostess of the party. She was the hostess of the party.

SETH LOW AS MEDIATOR.
Franklin MacVeagh presided. He stated the object of the meeting and introduced the speakers. Seth Low introduced the speakers. Seth Low introduced the speakers. Seth Low introduced the speakers.

THE LABOR SIDE STATED.
Grand Chief Warren S. Stone of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers opened tonight for the labor host. He spoke in a conversational tone and at times with hesitation. He told the people that the committee who had gone to England to study municipal ownership would soon be ready with its report, and modestly disclaimed any connection with the report. He said that it would cover some 11,000 pages of matter but he had not seen any of it yet and did not know what things it might contain.

NEW PHASE DEVELOPS

John Smith, one of the actual assassins has fled from Jackson where the trial of the Hargis faction was suddenly interrupted, and is believed to have jumped his bail which is set at $30,000, with Judge Hargis as surety. In his confession Smith states that Hargis and Callaghan gave him $100 to kill Dr. Cox, that he helped in the crime and got his money. He also accuses both the Hargis brothers of planning to kill Marcum and goes into details of the crime. He further states that he refused to engage in the Marcum killing and Judge Hargis hired Curtis Jett to do it. Judge Hargis and his attorney were in exultation to day holding a conference upon the recent action of the court of appeals in prohibiting further proceedings with the trial Attorney Henry Bird, who has been instrumental in bringing these cases to trial has been forced to leave Jackson to save his life.

LILIAN RUSSELL'S WILD AUTOMOBILE TRIP

PHILADELPHIA, Jan 12.—For exceeding the speed limit while driving a big white automobile in a recent trip from this city to Atlantic City, Lilian Russell and two men whose names are not known to the police are wanted by the authorities of a half dozen Jersey towns who identified the alleged pickpocket as David Fleischer who was being tried on a gambling charge. He was arrested in the additional charge of robbery and held in $2000 bail for examination. The identification came about in a peculiar way. Fleischer, twenty-two, of No. 461 East Houston street had caused the arrest of Benjamin Adler, twenty-six, of No. 78 East Third street, David Fox, twenty-four, of No. 60 Lewis street, Samuel Levy, twenty-four, of No. 95 Lewis street, Moses Veager, thirty-four, of No. 54 East Third street and David Fleischer, twenty-seven, of No. 108 South Second street, Brooklyn, saying they had robbed him in a "stuss" game where he had lost $375.60. Fleischer was held in $500 bail for examination. The magnitude of Mrs. Henry Goldberg, who happened to be in court, told the detectives she was sure she could identify the robber of her husband. She saw him flee and her husband had been seen by a number of crooks at headquarters. Detectives Joseph Cooke and Nelson Hart had told Mr. and Mrs. Goldberg to go to Essex Market and try to identify the man who robbed them from a gang of suspects and pickpockets whom the detectives arrested on the Schwartz charge. But the woman and her husband passed over all the crooks without finding the man they wanted. Suddenly Mrs. Goldberg placed at the row of "stuss" prisoners at the rail before Magistrate Walsh, and grasping her husband's arm dragged him in front of the court. She declared her finger at the latter, shouted triumphantly.

CHILDREN WALK MANY MILES

Little Tots Lose Their Way
Searching for Bargain
Candy.

NEW YORK, Jan. 12.—Albert Miller, and his sister Sarah, 5, of 321 Van Minkie avenue, Jersey City, accumulated five cents apiece New Year's Day, and that fact, coupled with a business in their mind, led to their disappearance. They were returned to their home yesterday. They had wandered many miles, clutching their treasure, looking for a "bargain sale" in candy.

"When we left the house we saw candy that was three for a cent," said Albert. "We wanted four for a cent. Three for a cent is too dear, you know. So we kept on walking all the time, looking in store windows. Then it got dark and we didn't know where we were."

"They were in Guttenburg,"

"We went to the store of the City Hall in the place," Albert continued, "and went to sleep. A policeman scared us so much that we couldn't give our names. He sent us to rooms where other children were."

The Children's Society took care of the pair, but the Guttenburg police failed to identify the surrounding children. The Jersey City department found the boy and girl yesterday.

NEW DICE GAME.

The latest dice game in cigar stores is played as follows:

Take the customary five dice. Aces count ten, the other dice count only the pips which turn up. Throw ninety or above in three throws. If you are successful you are paid at the rate of fifteen to one. Looks easy, doesn't it? For instance, if you throw one ace, one 6 two 5s and a 4 spot the first throw, you have 30—one-third of the required number. If your next roll is two aces, one 4 one 3 and two 2s, you have 11. Then you have made 30 plus 31, or 61 for the two throws. Suppose the last time you throw three 6s, two 5s and one deuce, an even 30. The three throws total you 91.

If you do this the dealer pays you fifteen to one. If you paid a cents for your chance, the cigar dealer gives you 75 cents worth of cigars, tobacco, or anything in the house.

"This is about the best playing game we have," one dealer said last week. "If you think it's easy to beat, just try it. About one time in fifty a man makes the ninety. Usually the game ends with the total in the sixties or seventies."

In another cigar store is this sign:

Twenty-five throws, 15 cents—five dice. Twenty-five of a kind pays 25 cents. Twenty-six of a kind pays 50 cents. Forty of a kind pays $10.

"That's a cinch," you'll say. "Dead easy." It's a shame to beat the dealer! Tackle it and see how the numbers all fall on the other side. You'll find it a tussle with the game of chance to turn up twenty-six fours or twenty-five of any other spot with the dice in twenty-five throws.

Another game very similar to this is played with five dice and ten throws. Fifteen of a kind wins $1 worth of smokes. It costs you 25 cents to get this chance. If you throw fewer than fifteen of a kind you get only a pleasant look—nothing to smoke.

Poker like is as popular as ever—the man throwing the best "hand" winning the stakes by the one cigar or a box. And poker dice with the "ace wild" is often played. The expression "ace wild" means that an ace may be counted as any number on the bones. For instance, if four fours and two aces are thrown they may be counted as six fours.

"The whole game centers on percentages," the dealer says. "The chances are five to one against a player. There are six different numbers on each die. If you are throwing for 4s, you have the 1, 2, 3 and 4 against you. Of course in such cases as twenty-five throws with five dice to make twenty-five of a kind, the percentage is changed. But if you make two or three throws of the dice in this game and do not get a single one with the number you want, you begin working nearer a handicap. Try it!"

LOSES LICENSE FOR 6 MONTHS

Appeal Lost by Skipper Who Stranded the Steamer
Mongolia.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 12.—Superintendent of Marine Affairs, U. S. Coast Guard, has dismissed the appeal of Captain Porter, formerly of the steamer Mongolia, who was charged with unlawful conduct in stranding the vessel on Midway Island last September. The local board of inspectors disapproved and referred the matter to the supervising inspector, Birmingham, who suspended Captain Porter's license for six months. U. S. Coast Guard, who Captain Porter had full jurisdiction. If the sentence had been longer than six months, supervising inspector General Usher could have entertained an appeal.

THE POPE'S MESSAGE SAID TO ALARM FRANCE

PARIS, Jan. 12.—The encyclical issued yesterday by the Pope seemingly puts to an end the hopes of the moderates of all shades of opinion that the church would eventually accommodate itself to new conditions in France. There is not the faintest suggestion that the French bishops will not obey the orders from Rome. Although many of them would prefer a more immediate solution of the difficulties, they will simply register the Pope's decision. The consequences of the French people's desire are likely to be deplorable from every point of view.

The majority of the clergy and Catholics generally recognize that practically there is no chance of the church emerging victorious from the struggle. On the contrary, the lot of the church will be only harder. Negotiations are now impossible as no matter how desirable they might have been at the beginning the mere suggestion now of negotiating would mean the instant downfall of the Cabinet. If the object of the Vatican is to arouse the Catholics to seek redress at the polls, the first attempt at organization for that purpose would be met by a measure authorizing the government to regard all priests as being subjects of a foreign power. This last step, however, will only be taken as a last resort.

Even M. Jaures, the Socialist leader, refers regretfully to the consequences which the papal encyclical will entail. He says:

"The Pope desires to save the dogmas and the hierarchy. In reality he is preparing their ruin. 'Attila was the scourge of God,' Plus X. is the scourge of the church."

CAT GOT FULL.

John Keenig, 618 Willis avenue, the Bronx, owns two tiger cats, Tom and Jennie, usually sedate creatures. The cats behaved most disreputably yesterday. The children's court yesterday found the cats guilty of being drunk.

Like a glided youth in a lobster palace at 3 a. m. January 1, Jennie sat up like a squirrel and, smiling sweetly, made passes with her front paws at something she only saw.

Keenig, sober man was greatly shocked that his pet should begin the New Year so. He learned how they had gone astray when he found in his pantry the remains of a fine fruit cake and of several mice.

The fruit cake had been "reasoned" for weeks in brandy. Rich, redolent and tempting, it was to have owned Keenig's domestic feast last night.

"The mice had filled themselves with fruit cake and brandy. The cats had filled themselves with mice, fruit cake and brandy. Tom and Jennie suffered severely from indigestion last night, but Keenig had no sympathy for them."

New York World.

Former Chief of Police Atkins of Marblehead, Mass., whose picture is at the bottom of the accompanying cut, declares that he is able, at last, to clear up the mystery surrounding the sensational murder of Frank Hathaway, 25 years of age. He says he knows the murderer and is prepared to go before the grand jury and present his testimony. The picture of the lady at the top is that of Miss Carrie G. Stone, who is said to have been a witness of the murder.

STURDY YOUTH STOLE FOR CHUM

NEW YORK, Jan. 12.—Johnny McCarthy, thirteen years old, bright faced and honest looking, admitted in the Children's Court yesterday that he had sacrificed himself uselessly on the altar of friendship by a misdeed to help one of his school fellows.

"How did it happen?" asked Justice Olmsted.

"Well, one of the boys told me that he had lost 75 cents his father gave him to go to the store with by losing the money shooting craps, and said he was afraid to go home."

This was the excuse Johnny made for taking a bundle of laundry from a cart on West Eighty-third street.

JOCKEY'S BALL GREAT SUCCESS

Pleasant Affair Held Last Night at Germania Hall.

More than 400 danced at the grand annual ball of the jockeys, which was held at Germania Hall last evening. Flags and bunting decorated the auditorium, while potted plants and abundant greenery added to the artistic effect. The ball was under the management of Brick Devereux. Professor A. W. Fisk's full orchestra furnished the music. The officers were Big Bill Knapp, floor manager; floor committee—W. Miller, A. Brown, McBride, Handriding Kelly, T. Sullivan, W. Dugan and Bill Reid. The grand march was led by Jockey Kelly and Miss Smith. The beautiful gold-mounted handle whip was between Jockeys Miller and Kelly.

ALFRED VANDERBILT TO SURPRISE EUROPE

NEW YORK, Jan. 12.—Alfred Vanderbilt will sail for Europe next Saturday to arrange for the most pretentious invasion of that continent ever undertaken by an American sportsman in search of ribbons for excellence in four-in-hand tournaments. He will enter the lists as a contestant in the horse show in London next June. The string Mr. Vanderbilt will send over consists of twenty-six horses. They represent the cream of a stable of several hundred each one of which is a star in the hackney world. In the party goes the celebrated four—Viking, Venture, Vague and Vanity—each one a many-time blue ribbon winner.

BOTH PROVINCIAL.

After all, the differences between Emporia and New York—differences which antedate those between ancient Rome and the Sabine farm, where Horace sipped his old Falernian—are merely differences of provincialism. Little old New York is provincial; and even though New York is populated with people from Emporia and neighboring towns, these adopted New Yorkers forget, or pretend to forget, all about the old home town. And Emporia is provincial, in that, even though we go to New York once or twice a year, we ignore the fact that the very presence of three million people living there argue that they live in some degree of comfort and satisfaction. What New York can't see is how we can live in Emporia with so little going on at the opera house; and what we can't see is how a man who can have one hundred feet of lawn and a kitchen garden to sprinkle with the hose every evening after work can permit himself to be looked up in a row of five and six story cell houses, with nothing to distinguish one cell-house from the other but the number on the front door.—W. A. White in The American Magazine.

QUEEN OF LOVE UP IN COURT

Mrs. Bina F. Verrault Compelled to Appear Before New York Judge.

NEW YORK, Jan. 12.—Mrs. Bina F. Verrault, late queen of the "Love Syndicate" or "House of Hearts," in West Eighty-third street, was in court again today. When the fasci (the widow) came into the courtroom on the "Shields" room it was her eighth appearance in the much adjourned case the government is trying to make against her of using the mails with intent to defraud.

The alleged offense consisted of mailing promises to wed James F. McClellan, a Philadelphia grocer, and Leo Kelsler, a Mutual Life clerk when she was already married to George Verrault. A smile as sweet as honey sold by McClellan's maid Mrs. Verrault's face as she was asked how she felt about the outcome of her case.

I shall be vindicated completely she said and these two fortune hunters will be shown to be the real adventurers. All they were looking for was dollars with a big D. As for poor red-headed Kelsler he is simply a broken balloon.

Of course I took all they gave me. Why shouldn't a woman take gifts from gentlemen who are kind enough to give them to her? I am going to write a book of my experiences with the men who have made my acquaintance with a view of getting a big bank account. It will be a smart volume. I can tell you, and I expect to make a lot of money with it. I will devote several pages to the methods of these fortune hunters and the idiotic way they make love.

Mrs. Verrault doffed today her gorgeous plumage which has made a bright splash of color in the courtroom at recent hearings and appeared in a quiet gray costume. A blue feather in her toque was her only decoration and the famous turquoise locket given her by McClellan in the bye-gone days of his courtship, was conspicuous by its absence.

Hugh Gordon Miller, Mrs. Verrault's attorney, drew the attention of the commissioner to the law covering the point that Deputy United States Commissioner Doer is trying to make against his client. The Federal Code provides that in such cases as that of the Mrs. Verrault the use of the mails must be an essential feature of the scheme.

Mr. Miller admitted the complainant had made the acquaintance of Mrs. Verrault through letters but that they had not been used in the syndicate's affairs.

Mr. Shields said he would take the matter under advisement and render a decision in two weeks time.

After the submission of her lawyers' arguments Mrs. Verrault's spirits rose and her face was dimpled with smiles as she stepped into a hansom on Park Row.

Ever since the first hearing Kelsler has been a constant attendant in the courtroom. His favorite post is on a broad window-sill from which he can turn and look out at Park Row whenever any of his love-letters are read. At such times Kelsler's rubicund pudor bristles like a hairbrush as he runs his hands through it in a nervous manner.

PRINCE IS NOT ON MARKET

August Wilhelm of Prussia Already Engaged to a Princess

Special to THE TRIBUNE by the Hearst News Service over longest leased wire in the world.

BERLIN, Jan. 12.—The American heiress may keep her heart still.

Prince August Wilhelm of Prussia, when he crosses the Atlantic to study American industrial prosperity and the social system is not in the matrimonial market. Although only nineteen he has become engaged to his first cousin, Princess Alexandra Victoria, second daughter of Duke Friedrich of Schleswig-Holstein-Sonderburg-Glücksburg.

While like all the princes he has had to submit to military discipline since childhood the prince who is a tall handsome looking boy is at present a student in Bonn University.

Cucumbers and butterbills are winning in their efforts. Butterbills makes a harmless pleasant lotion for the skin softening and whitening it. It is a simple matter to bathe with it night and morning.

Eleven Years Ago The ANGELUS Was Born

THEN, for the first time an instrument existed which provided the means by which ANY ONE could play the piano. It was a marvelous invention. People who say it working could not believe their eyes—many didn't believe for months that what they saw was not an illusion.

In 1895 the Angelus was built as an attachment, inside the piano similar to the Emerson Angelus of today. Two years later the Angelus was built as a separate cabinet. Still another year later—THREE YEARS AFTER the Angelus was invented the first IMITATOR appeared.

Least contradictory advertising statements should be confusing, we quote from:

The United States Official Census Reports:
"In 1905 Messrs. Wilcox & White of Meriden Conn., began manufacturing an interior attachment and in February, 1897, built their first ANGELUS, a cabinet piano player. This instrument the invention of E. H. White may be regarded as the PIONEER of the various Similar Attachments which have since been placed on the market."

There have been wonderful improvements since those pioneer days. The musical manufacturing world with remarkable hindsight, saw that Wilcox & White were going to revolutionize the piano industry.

Imitators came by dozens and the competition was an inspiration to the investors. It proved their position. It gave confidence to genius. The Angelus that was could not be compared to the Angelus that is today. Nor can any of its imitators.

Day after day customers come back to us and tell us that other instruments cannot be compared to the Angelus in the wonderful phrasing and the singing of the clearly emphasized melody.

Others are complicated with mere mechanical aids to do high-sounding tricks.
The ANGELUS responds to the thought of the artist to a pian and supplies the absolute HUMAN TOUCH to the piano keys.
The Angelus was the first and alone in the beginning.
The Angelus is FIRST and ALONE today in every finished quality that the true musician loves.
The Angelus is the ONLY PIANO PLAYER that ever dared musical critics to detect its work from hand playing—and the Angelus WON.
The Angelus is the ONLY piano player built in a piano of the first class. The EMERSON-ANGELUS is a musical marvel, and has no rival in its field. Sold on monthly installments if you wish. Your old piano if you have one taker in part payment.
Come and see and hear what the Angelus can do—you'll need no further proof of its unquestioned supremacy.

CALIFORNIA WATERWAYS

Resolutions Adopted by the Special Committee of the State Drainage Association.

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Jan. 12.—The special committee of the River Improvement and Drainage Association of California, appointed about a year ago to bring various interests together met this morning in the rooms of the Sacramento Chamber of Commerce. The following were present as members of the committee: Rufus P. Jennings, president of the River Improvement and Drainage Association of California, who presided as chairman of the special committee; Marshall Diggs, president of the Sacramento Valley Development Association and George Pettler, president of the Sacramento Drainage Commission. The following were also present by invitation: E. W. S. Woods of Stockton; Frank D. Ryan, commissioner of public works, I. H. Harvey of Galt; W. A. Beard of Sacramento; John C. Ing of Sacramento; R. B. Marshall and Dr. G. K. Gilbert of the Geological Survey and H. Van C. Torchiana, director of the Santa Cruz Board of Trade.

Lieutenant-Governor Warren H. Porter and Senator Le Roy A. Wright of San Diego were in attendance. Norman P. D'Evelyn acted as secretary. A resolution was adopted urging Congress to authorize the war department to make investigation and surveys for the purpose of determining the cost, practicability and advantages of providing a depth of fifteen feet of water for the Sacramento and San Joaquin rivers from the mouth to Sacramento and Stockton respectively, with a depth for the Sacramento for nine feet to the mouth of the Feather river and seven feet up the Feather river to Marysville.

Resolutions were adopted endorsing the work of the United States Geological Survey in completing with the co-operation of the State nearly all the surveys on the west side of the Sacramento river, and recommending that the legislature of California appropriate $40,000 for the continuation of the topographic work, and $25,000 for the continuation of the hydrographic work as outlined by the Geological Survey and the State Board of Examiners of California. The resolution also recommended that the Legislature appropriate $15,000 for continuing to co-operate in the investigation by the United States department of agriculture for the purpose of ascertaining the best method of distributing and using the waters of the States.

Dr. C. Gilbert of the United States Geological Survey made a statement of what line of experimenting in the problem of detritus he was carrying out in his laboratory at Berkeley.

ART COLLECTION OF SEN. CLARK

He is Said to Have the Finest Gallery in the World.

NEW YORK, Jan. 12.—With the purchase of "Harvesting the Poppies," chase on Friday of Jules Breton's painting "Harvesting the Poppies," for which he paid $40,000, Senator William A. Clark of Montana, has added one more rare work of art to the superb collection which adorns his mansion at 11th avenue and Fifty-seventh street. His is now ranked as the finest private collection in the world and even rivals some of the government collections abroad. There is a special public interest in it by reason of the fact that the Montana copper king has planned his mansion so that one day of each week the general public will be permitted to view the art treasures with which he has surrounded his young and beautiful wife.

The purchase of "Harvesting the Poppies," marked Senator Clark's formal appearance, by the way, as an art connoisseur who judges and buys his trophies without the aid of artists or critics. The Senator having conceived a love for the fine arts, made a so-called study of them both in this country and abroad. In his study he has had at all times the aid of Mrs. Clark.

Mrs. Clark is an accomplished musician and an amateur art collector of note as well, and in her Fifth Avenue home she has a fortune in tapestries, bronzes, costly paintings and bronzes from every capital in the Old World.

"Harvesting the Poppies" was sold in 1903 for $36,500. The $40,000 paid for it by Senator Clark was the top price for any painting at the Mendelssohn Hall salon Friday.

Only 32 years old, "I am only 32 years old and don't expect even when I get to be real old to feel that way as long as I can get Electric Bitters," says Mrs. E. H. Brunson of Dublin, Ga. "Surely there's nothing else keeps the old as young and makes the weak as strong as this grand tonic medicine. Dyspepsia, torpid liver, inflamed kidneys or chronic constipation are unknown after taking Electric Bitters a reasonable time. Guaranteed by Osgood Brothers, druggists Broadway, corner of Seventh, and Washington, corner of Twelfth. Price 50c."

Good imitation pearl dog collars, with bars of brilliants, are $5.75 in one shop.

WINS LAKESIDE PRIZE AND COMES NEAR WORLD RECORD

Kennedy First in Six-Day Race at the Popular Rink -- A Fine List of Attractions for This Week

The big six day race came to an end last night with Jimmie Kennedy, a good mile in the lead of his competitors. Four prizes were awarded in the following order: First, $25; second, $12.50; third, $7.50, and fourth, $5.

Young Kennedy made the first mile last night in the crack time of 2:32, the world's record for the mile being 2:22.

Next Thursday evening the little wonder will go up against the Sacramento marvel, Norman Manning, for a side bet of $25. The distance will be one mile.

The results of the six day race are given below: Kennedy, 23 miles, 8 laps, first prize, Nichols, 23 miles, 12 laps, second prize, Forrest, 23 miles, 10 laps, third prize, Lee, 23 miles, 10 laps, fourth prize, C. Ritz, 23 miles, 1 lap.

Miss Etta Pitt will be one of the chief attractions at this popular resort next week. Miss Pitt is recently from the East where she scored many triumphs. She is a marvel on the "little rollers," and she has no equal in the graceful performances and feats which her fancy roller skaters attempt. Her program is an entirely new one to Lakeside patrons and those who see her will be well satisfied.

Messrs. Coleman and Young had much trouble in signing her and incurred heavy expense in so doing. Her costumes are marvels of beauty and originality and will be of special interest to the ladies.

Wednesday evening the big bicycle race will take place at the rink and a large attendance is expected.

SPEEDING AUTOISTS REBUKED BY JUDGE
NEW YORK, Jan. 12.—Magistrate Crane read a sharp lecture to Albert Silverstein, a broker, of 65 West One Hundred and Nineteenth street, and his chauffeur, Henry Selden, of 117 East One Hundred and Sixteenth street, yesterday, when Selden was arraigned in the Harlem police court on a charge of auto speeding. Selden was arrested at Lenox avenue and One Hundred and Nineteenth street late Saturday night.

"You people have no regard for the rights or the lives of citizens," said the magistrate. "You see a man standing at a crossing ahead of your fast-moving machine, you give a honk with your horns, you run over your victim, and that is all you care. I have had to jump for my life many a time. What excuse have you, Selden, for your conduct?"

Silverstein said the chauffeur was teaching him to Mrs. Silverstein's sick bed.

"Well, why did you not tell me that before?" said the magistrate. "I've as much kindness as anybody else."

The chauffeur was discharged for violating the speed limit and on a second count that the automobile did not bear the required number, but was held in $100 bail for trial in Special Sessions because he had no driver's license.

John S. Cook, said to be a banker, of Paterson, N. J., was held in $500 in the West Side court for trial on a charge of speeding his automobile on Riverside Drive. Samuel M. Young, of 210 West Fifty-seventh street, said to be a construction engineer of the Belmont tunnel, was arrested on Riverside Drive also. He was held in $500 bail.

Colonel A. L. Barber of the Barber Asphalt Company, furnished bail for both men.

LUMBER FLEET ARRIVE.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 12.—Never before in the history of the Pacific coast has the trade in lumber utilized so many ships. Every available vessel has been sent to this trade. Several people have scarcely more than rifles, being told both to and from the north in order to save time. Big firms are having others built for them especially for this work. Many ships that run to the north coast and come back with lumber under ordinary circumstances, are carriers of the product of the woods of the northwest. There are under course of construction a number of huge ships for this use but it will be several weeks before even the first of them is available.

Today there arrived several vessels with cargoes of lumber. Within a few hours there came in through the Golden Gate a total of 11,185,000 feet. A breakdown of the amount was divided as follows: Schooners—S. J. Boy, 394,000; J. M. Weatherwax, 500,000; Alice, 342,000; Edna, 550,000; Gable, 900,000; Ivy, 1,200,000; Doris, 400,000; Alton, 500,000; Barkentine—Wrestler, 65,000; Aurora, 1,300,000; G. C. Wilder, 630,000; Larch, 350,000; Bark Consuelo, 1,100,000; Steamers—Scott, 250,000; Aurelia, 687,000; Mackinaw, 23,000; Arctic, 222,000; Washington, 600,000; Galula, 250,000; Tipton, 510,000.

BUCH A THING AS EXPENSIVE ECONOMY

I have seen a lady spoil a pair of fine gloves trying to rescue a nickel from a mud puddle. Several people have been run over by street-cars or teams in New York while trying to rescue a dropped package, a hat, an umbrella, or a cane.

A Paris bank clerk, who was carrying a large bag through the streets, dropped a ten-franc piece which rolled from the sidewalk. It set his bag down to look for the lost piece, and while he was trying to extricate it from the gutter some one stole his bag and ran away with it.—Success.

THAW IS NOT VERY SICK

NEW YORK, Jan. 12.—Harry Thaw is ill in the Tombs with tonsillitis, but Dr. F. P. McGuire, the prison physician, says the attack is not severe and will not interfere with his trial, which is set for January 21.

Mrs. William Thaw and Evelyn Nesbit Thaw, who had heard of Thaw's illness in the Hotel Lorraine, hurried to the Tombs. They remained with the prisoner until noon.

Thaw is said to be in fine physical condition and to have gained about fifteen pounds in flesh during his seven months' confinement. He is said to be nervous about his approaching trial, but has no fear of the outcome. He expects to be set free before Ward planned a long trip abroad with his wife.

The district attorney has completed the preparations of the case for trial and does not expect to take more than one day to present the direct evidence showing the killing of Stanford White by eye-witness and the premeditation which is likely to constitute the crime of murder in the first degree.

It is understood that Thaw has a surprise for the district attorney's office to account for the justifiable killing of White. So satisfied are Thaw's lawyers with the evidence they are prepared to present to a jury that they confidently predict the acquittal of their client.

ART PROBLEM.

The increasing abuse of advertising in the open air is making hideous and inconsiderable part of the world. For many persons it has already virtually destroyed the pleasure once taken in railway journeying. Trips that were full of interest for the scenery from the car windows are now preferably made by night, to avert the melancholy contemplation of ruined landscapes. These aggressions are yearly growing in the extent of their field and in the magnitude of their operations. To meet them, to abate them, to restrict outdoor advertising to its proper sphere, and even to guide it in directions where it will be aesthetically attractive rather than offensive, is one of the most serious problems of civic art.—From "The Nuisances of Advertising" by Sylvester Baxter in the January Century.

ROMANTIC COURTSHIP.

NEW YORK, Jan. 10.—Two members of the "first set of Virginia" after a romantic courtship, were married at the home of the bride, 1737 North Park avenue. They were Anna-bell Chapman Lucas and Bittie Wilson Porterfield.

The ceremony was performed by the bride's uncle, the Rev. Dr. B. A. Abbott, pastor of the Harlem Avenue Christian Church, of Baltimore. When they return from their honeymoon in the South, Mr. and Mrs. Porterfield will reside permanently at Eggleston, Giles county, Va., where Mr. Porterfield has an extensive law practice.

Mr. and Mrs. Porterfield have known each other since childhood, when they went to the same school. Becoming separated years ago, the Virginians did not meet again until the summer of 1905, and then they came together accidentally at a resort.

Their old friendship was renewed, and they vowed never to become separated again. Mrs. Porterfield was formerly a teacher in the Wyoming Public School, Sixth street and Fairmont avenue.

Great Selling Event in Dress Goods

Remarkable Offering in Silks and Dress Goods at Hale's

Important Saving to You on Every Yard

Now is the time of the year when many complete as well as all broken lines are reduced for immediate selling. The reason is that a large quantity of the goods that were ordered some time ago for next spring's selling will be here soon, and there is no space on our shelves for them. Therefore we have reduced the prices on our present stock to make ample room for the goods now in transit.

No Advance in the Price of Silk at Hale's

Although the manufacturers' prices have been greatly advanced in the past few months, we are selling at the same prices now as before the rise. These goods are now marked at less than their real value—in fact, we are selling black and colored silks today at less than manufacturers' cost; that is, if they were purchased from the manufacturer's at the present time.

You must see these goods to fully realize their value. This sale is an unusual one—attend it tomorrow and see the many excellent offerings—all at prices that mean an important saving to you on every yard.

Dr. Crapsey's Vagaries Again.

Another minister has risen to defend Dr. Crapsey and protest against his being unfrocked as a priest of the Episcopal church. This new champion of Dr. Crapsey argues that the orthodox denominations should not deny their pastors the privilege of construing the Scriptures as they see fit, deny their authenticity if they choose, and to teach an interpretation of the gospel that denies in toto the creed they are supposed to preach. He sees nothing strange or contrary to Episcopal belief in Dr. Crapsey's dismissing the Immaculate Conception as a pious superstition and the Bible as a whole as an inspired book.

This clergyman appears to have a queer idea of the groundwork of the Christian religion. He does not realize that his contention involves the validity of the Christian faith and its claim to being the means of salvation. His position is analogous to that of a Mohammedan imam who would contend that he was teaching the tenets of Islam while denying that Mohammed was the prophet of God. Any one should see that the validity of Islam rests on the belief that Mohammed was a prophet chosen by God to make his laws and commandments known to men.

If there was no Immaculate Conception the birth of Jesus was due to the natural law of generation. Hence He was a man not a God. According to the apostolic creed, which is the basis of every shade of Christian belief, Jesus was the Son of God and one of the Holy Trinity. By denying His divine origin Dr. Crapsey disputed the one fundamental tenet of Christianity, for upon the divinity of Jesus rests the validity, not alone of the Episcopal faith but the Christian religion. If merely a man, however holy, pure and wise, Jesus was not the Messiah, and had no authority to found a church or consecrate and commission a priesthood. The Apostolic Succession to which the Episcopal church sets up a dubious title would have neither validity nor spiritual significance. There would be no cornerstone to the mighty edifice Christianity has reared, nor foundation for the faith that has revolutionized the religious thought of the world and directed civilization for eighteen centuries.

If we go further and admit Dr. Crapsey's right, while wearing the robe of a Christian teacher, to deny the inspiration of the Holy Scriptures we destroy not only the basis of Judaism, but we dismiss the doctrine of a Messiah. The prophecies which foretold the Christ's coming and the purpose of His sojourn among men should be regarded as the ravings of superstition or the traditions evolved by the development of a primitive religion. If men like Dr. Crapsey and his defender are at liberty to deny the divinity of Jesus and the inspiration of the Bible while remaining in the ministry, the Christian religion has neither chart, compass or steering gear, nor a plank to support it. The Crapseys have an indubitable right to think as they please, but they have no right to pretend to be Christians while denying the first and absolute essentials of the Christian faith.

It is the irony of politics that Governor Pardee should retire to private life while Franklin K. Lane is drawing a salary of $8000 a year in a job that is practically for life.

Railroad managers complain about Texas cinching the railroads, but they continue to build more lines in that State. The Southern Pacific, the Santa Fe, the Rock Island, and the Gould system are all busy. During 1906 Texas led all other States in railroad construction, the new mileage for the year aggregating 701. Texas has passed Illinois and now boasts the largest railway mileage of all the States. Which rather negatives the assertion that harsh laws and rigid control in that State discourage railroad building.

Our esteemed weekly contemporary, the San Francisco Leader, recently celebrated its sixth birthday. This gives us occasion to say that the Leader is always forceful and interesting. It has a distinct point of view, from which it discusses public questions consistently and trenchantly. We often disagree with its conclusions, but all the same admire the clearness and vigor with which they are presented. THE TRIBUNE extends its good wishes and the compliments of the season to the Leader.

The lynching record for 1906 is neither so black nor so long as that of previous years. Sixty-nine persons were lynched, but there were no burnings at the stake. All the lynchings were at the South save one in Colorado. Notwithstanding the energetic efforts of Governor Vardman to put down lynching, Mississippi has the dishonor of primacy in mob murder, the number of lynchings to her credit being twelve for the year just ended. It is gratifying to note, however, that the awakened conscience of the Southern people is steadily bringing into disrepute the barbarous code of Judge Lynch.

PRESSING TO THE FRONT RANK.

THE OAKLAND TRIBUNE'S ninety-page edition last Saturday was a whopper. To adequately describe its many interesting features is well-nigh impossible, suffice to say it is a credit to its town and its publishers. THE TRIBUNE is pressing forward to the front rank as one of the leading papers of the State. As an old Nevadan we are passing around to Virginia City folks, hereabouts, Baker's article on early days in Nevada, which is one of the best descriptions of the pioneers of that State that we've read in a long time.—Watsonville Pajaronian.

PRESERVING THE UNION ABOLISHED SLAVERY.

EDITOR TRIBUNE: It is not my object to uncover the hatchet buried for so many years or to argue the question of the Civil War and slavery, but merely to give my ideas of the editorial appearing in a recent issue.

It is an undisputed fact that the abolition of slavery resulted from the victory of the Republicans, yet I do not think they deserve much credit for that.

The difficult operation spoken of in which these nery Republican surgeons displayed their dexterity and skill in carving is somewhat like a man with a broken leg being operated on for appendicitis—the surgeons get the praise for the operation and the leg gets hell for being broke.

According to the words of Mr. Lincoln, war was not declared to free the slave but to preserve the union. Still some cannot praise the Republican party and Mr. Lincoln too highly.

I do believe if there was another Lincoln in the Republican party he would certainly come to the rescue of the poor unfortunate Japs now being imposed upon and liberated them from the toils of social bondage and the darkness of intellectual dungeons into which they have been cast.

MUSIC AS A COMING BY-PRODUCT

A REVIVAL FOR WOMAN SUFFRAGE

PROSPECTS DISCUSSED BY LADY COOK AND MRS. DORE LYON

By LADY COOK (TENNIE C. CLAFLIN).
(Written Specially for the Sunday Tribune.)

In the accompanying article Lady Cook, who was Tennie C. Claflin, reveals the fact that she has returned to New York, fresh from the campaign of the suffragettes in London, to promote the cause of woman suffrage in America. What chance she has of arousing the interest of American women in the cause may be judged from the article by Mrs. Dore Lyon, a representative of the progressive clubwomen of New York.

In England all women, from the shop girl to the lady at court, are actively interested in politics. It is true that they do not vote, but this is not because they do not want to. It is simply because they have no desire to demand their vote until they know that their rank and file will realize why and for what they are voting. And they are wise enough to understand that this is a question of time and growth.

In the meantime the leading suffragettes, and fine, noble women they are too, are actively engaged with all the enthusiasm and all the power they possess in presenting and carrying through important campaign issues. The most convincing proof of this is the ardor with which some of the most brilliant women lend their oratory in stump speeches just before Parliamentary elections. The heart and soul of representative English women are in the suffragist work!

So much for what has been accomplished directly in the open field in England. The indirect benefits which have been the outcome of the seemingly hopeless struggle for suffragists' rights, there as here, are too manifold and now too distinctly a part of our everyday life to bear repetition in this short article.

But if this is enough about the women of England, please let me have a word all my own, for I am burning to talk to the women of America. They are representative women of the world, and the time has arrived when the vigorous young American woman with ideals must take up this great suffragist work, the seed of which was planted forty years ago by a few fearless women, and having died down to take root, is now rising above the soil to be nurtured and garnered and fostered as the healing plant of all the nations.

To the girl who loves her freedom, to the mother who cherishes the pure manhood of her son, to the woman who would stand herself and have her sisters stand intellectually and morally on an equal plane with great and good men, let me speak the message of the mission which has prompted me to return to and to remain in my native land. It is that what remaining power and enthusiasm I have left may be devoted to inspiring the generation now rising to womanhood, with the vastness, the magnificence, the saving grace of a movement which makes all men free, not by cowering the strong, but by strengthening the weak.

BY MRS. DORE LYON.

(Written Specially for the Sunday Tribune.)

When the American woman wants the suffrage she will get it. Of that there has never been any doubt in the minds of either men or women. She has not proved herself invincible on so many points in which she has felt a really vital interest in order to acknowledge that the procuring of equal suffrage is an impossible task!

But the day seems not to have arrived! Now and then we hear of a determined effort on the part of a few advanced women to influence legislation in this regard, and at the same time of a strong attempt of women who think themselves equally advanced to prevent such legislation!

Men like feminine women, and are very jealous and grow more so of the rights which custom and the laws have accorded them in the past, and they will not passively accept any infringement by the weaker sex upon those rights. The slow but certain advance of woman in every field hitherto pre-empted by man is recognized and acknowledged. But to only a comparatively small number of women has been given the insight into the future. They are the advance guard, the pioneers. To them the working out of a universal suffrage is clear, but they are only a few, and although earnest and faithful to the cause, must needs make haste slowly, with quiet and dignity, even though the realization of their great hope is delayed thereby.

They realize that they must first educate the women to want the suffrage before they begin the education of men, and unlike the English suffragettes they are working quietly but continually. Possibly they realize that when woman herself is converted to suffrage that will be the end of the battle. The Pure Food Bill, Child Labor Laws and other great movements prove the extent of woman's power when she is really interested. As to the merits of equal suffrage, can there be any doubt upon the question? The only wonder is that man the just, man the logical, does not voluntarily confer the suffrage, at least upon women who are taxpayers; that he, the mighty maker of laws, is content to accept money for the purpose of maintaining the State, county and city without giving the unrecognized but equally taxed feminine taxpayer a voice in the selection of the officials who shall administer the vast sums which she contributes!

Tillman in a New Role.

Senator Tillman is grotesque in his variety. As a defender of the colored battalion mustered out as a consequence of the Brownsville incident, he presents as ridiculous a figure as did Thersites at the siege of Troy. We gather from Tillman's remarks that by inviting Booker Washington to an informal luncheon at the White House the President made himself responsible for the murderous midnight raid the colored troopers made on Brownsville. The dismissal of the battalion he stigmatizes as a lynching. Really the South Carolina Senator is becoming tiresome. He has no sense of humor else he would be abashed by the absurdity of his position. He made it plain that he seconded Foraker's attack on the President merely to gratify the personal resentment he has long cherished against Mr. Roosevelt. He has no regard for the negroes and would like to see the colored regiments mustered out of the service, but to vent his pique against the President he makes himself a defender of riot and military insubordination. We hardly think the colored people will relish the character of the defense Tillman makes for the degraded battalion. Nor is Senator Foraker likely to be edified by the ally who has come with his pitchfork to aid in the war on Roosevelt.

A Gift From the Greeks.

The suggestion from San Francisco that all the improvements projected on the water front be blocked for an indefinite period while the old fight over the ownership of the tide lands is being fought over again has the appearance of a Trojan horse. It is profitless to debate the ethics of the transfer of the city's title to Carpenter and his assigns since the courts have decided that the conveyance is legal and binding. Oakland can gain nothing by reopening the question, and she would bar for years to come her own growth and advancement.

In case the improvements now under way or projected for the immediate future were stopped on the theory that the State owns the wide stretch of mud flats lying between the shore line and the bulkhead line what would be the consequence? We should have to wait for the State to build the piers, docks and wharves so indispensable to Oakland's growth as a maritime city. Would the State do it? And when? First, there would be years of harassing and expensive litigation, and not a little turmoil and political intrigue. Should the State's title be vindicated in the end we should have to await the good pleasure of the Legislature for the improvements that private parties stand ready to make at their own expense now.

One can reasonably imagine how joyfully the legislative representatives of San Francisco and Los Angeles would vote appropriations to improve the water front of Oakland. It is nonsense to suppose they would aid in developing the marine commerce of Oakland when San Francisco and San Pedro are so anxious to get the sea trade. So when we analyze the virtuous and benevolent advice gratuitously offered across the bay we see that it is nothing less than a suggestion that Oakland lie down and quit trying to be a seaport city.

GOOD FOR MAYOR MOTT.

Mayor Mott of Oakland seems to be a man among men. He is Mayor in the largest and most liberal sense. He throws himself into the business of his office and feels that he has a great responsibility that he is in duty bound to meet. He is not a politician; in fact, politics appear to be the merest incident in his administration. He is confronted with extraordinary conditions in Oakland, and we cannot forbear to congratulate that city on its excellent fortune in having him at the head of affairs. He is taking a foremost hand in the great work before him. He waits for no man to lead, but does the leading himself.

Along came a powerful corporation owning the water supply of the city. It was quick to discover in Mott the very man it needed to manage its rapidly growing business. The Mayor was offered a contract and $12,000 a year salary. It was a sore temptation, but Mott has risen above it. He announces that he feels that he owes a duty to the city and he will not accept the employment. If he had done nothing else he would justify the people of Oakland in remembering him with the greatest satisfaction. The water company offered him three times as much as the city pays him, but he feels that he owes it to the public to stick by his post.

Oakland and the State generally cannot afford to overlook this man.—Sacramento Sunday News.

A PLEA FOR FREE TEXT BOOKS.

EDITOR TRIBUNE: I see that you are doing a lot of boosting in favor of public parks of Oakland. Bully for you! But will you please allow me to ask you not to forget to boost free text books for our children while attending public school. I am a native of New York city and when I came to Oakland six years ago I was struck most forcibly when I had to pay for my children's books, and since then I can't remember how often they had to change their books, and indeed with as large a family of children as I have, buying books means a great deal. I would not mind it so much if the books could be handed down but not so. Every six months or so, it seems to me, that I must buy a new set of books for each one. Also I know of not a few mothers who have to do some outside work in order to earn something to help pay for their children's books, sooner than have their children humiliated by going before the Board of Education asking for free books, acting like paupers. When I went to school in New York City that city was not any richer than Oakland is today and we never dreamed of paying for school books, and we had a fine central park. Oakland is slow, I must say. When I first struck Oakland I said to my husband, "Are the painters on a strike?" The houses all looked so dirty and dingy to me. Of course, now I think they are O. K., or I have become accustomed to looking at them. It is a wonder some of your great men that write up in the papers what ought to be done would not get a gait on them and be up and doing—how slow you are here. I guess there is a great deal of the Spanish still lingering about or too many of the way-backs. Take notice that when enterprise and go-ahead is needed they can't get along without Eastern live men. For instance, the great Fairmont hotel. Eastern men had to come here to have things run on a business like way. What is the matter with the native son? I have a native son, but I hope he does not grow up to be just a full-fledged sport. There is too much of the sporting element here now. Mr. Editor, I love Oakland, but allow me to say that there'll have to be a lot of boosting done yet before Oakland can make a show, such as any of our large Eastern cities. As it is now I believe the cemetery is the only public park here. Yours for the betterment of Oakland, not forgetting the free text books for our children.

MESSANGER BOY RUN OVER BY UNDER ARREST KEY ROUTE CARS

Paul Dunaley Charged With Theft of Pair of Trousers.

Paul Dunaley, a fifteen-year-old messenger boy, is in the city jail on an embezzlement charge. He is said to have appropriated for his own use a pair of trousers which a local tailor gave him to deliver.

Upon the customer's failure to receive his Sunday best, he communicated with the tailor, who made an investigation. The police were notified and Detective McSorley and Special Officer E. A. Baagso apprehended the young fellow at 4:30 East Sixteenth street at 4:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon.

BERKELEY, Jan. 12.—While crossing the Key Route tracks near South Berkeley station at 6 o'clock tonight, Charles Rathke, a retired capitalist, 55 years old, was caught beneath the wheels of the northbound train. The two front trucks ran over his legs, cutting them off below the knees. The injured man was taken to Dwight way in the same train and then removed to the Roosevelt hospital in an ambulance.

Charles Rathke lives at 1535 Alcatraz avenue, South Berkeley, and is the father of William E. Rathke, of Burton & Rathke, Lorin druggists.

Dunaley denied having stolen the trousers, but was identified as the messenger who was entrusted to deliver the package. He will be taken before the police judge tomorrow.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.

A NEW WAY OF MINING

By A SPECIAL CONTRIBUTOR.

There are many persons who can detect the presence of water in the ground by means of a forked stick of willow or witch hazel. There is not the shadow of a doubt regarding this—given the proper conditions. Even children have been tested, and ignorant of the object of the experiment, have located veins of water under the earth. It is not well to scoff at these things until positive facts are known. Because a thing is inexplicable does not mean that it is impossible.

It is a well known fact that certain minerals exhale emanations of a peculiar character. Thus certain forms of vegetation will not grow over certain kinds of minerals. This exhalation may be magnetic in character—probably is. Or again, it may be a chemical change imperceptibly taking place. It may be an odor—if you could term it that.

Now, there are people who are sensitive to these emanations. There are people possessed of the gift of what we may designate as "psychometry"—which is the scientific appellation. The word means "soul-measuring" or "soul-feeling." There are many books published upon this interesting study, and many well recognized authorities have had its existence so clearly demonstrated that they are believers in it.

The theory of this is that every material thing has the power of receiving impressions imprinted upon its surface, much the same as a picture is photographed on a negative. Here is an experiment that you may try if you wish. Take a piece of plain white paper, letter size, if possible, and a large key. Place the key in the middle of the page, and expose for a considerable time in the direct rays of the sun. Let the rays beat down upon it fiercely for a while, and then quickly remove the paper and key and place them in a dark drawer. You can now take away the key. If you will look at that paper at any time during the next few months, you will be able to discern a faint, shadowy picture or outline of that key on the white page. Try this if you are skeptical.

In this event, the combination of the sun's rays and the metal of the key have evidently had something to do with it. Explain the matter as best you can.

This, then, is the theory underlying psychometry, that all things leave their imprint on material things, and that this imprint may be "sensed" by the subtle capacity of the psychic self. This is the instinctive self in the human being. This is the sense or self by which birds find their way unerringly over a strange country. This is the sense which animals employ to communicate with each other. This is the instinct that enables the Australian to "smell" water forty miles distant. It is this instinct—developed to a tremendous degree—that enables the psychometrist to do these wonders with physical things—with ores, rocks, etc.

This is the explanation given by M. A. Mansfield of 526 Ninth street, to account for his powers. This, he says, is the scientific method of accounting for them, so far as words can express it.

His modus operandi is simply to take the piece of ore that you give him and hold it in his hand. It may be placed in an envelope or wrapped up, as you please, although the presence of silk seems to interfere somewhat, and it is advisable to use cotton or paper rather than silk or wool. Then, after a pause of more or less duration, during which he appears lost in thought, or "waiting" for an impression, he begins to speak. He will describe the location of the place whence the specimen was taken and the formation of the ground. He will speak of the ores as would an experienced miner, using terms in an almost unconscious manner, but with utter accuracy—terms with which he ordinarily is not acquainted, not being versed in mining lore.

You may ask what you will at this point and be answered. It is usually well to have a good idea of what you really want to know, so that you may take advantage of the fact that he is "en rapport" with the piece of ore.

In this way, not long ago, the vein formation of a celebrated mine in Colorado was clearly indicated, and the predictions of the psychometrist were verified afterwards to be truly amazing in their accuracy. A number of well known local capitalists are interested in this mine.

Or you may take a plain band ring and have its entire history traced. Mansfield says that the history of every person is wrapped up in any article that they have been constantly associated with for a long time. It is interesting, he says, to observe the influence that certain individuals will leave behind them. He can always tell the character of a person by the impressions upon his touching something that has been once infused with his or her "aura."

An interesting circumstance is related concerning his power to do this. He was once handed an old dull razor that had been in the possession of a woman for years, and he was requested to give its history. Mansfield described a small village back in Massachusetts, and told about one person in particular, who fashioned this same razor out of a file. It was the first one that the man had ever made, and he afterwards became a manufacturer of cutlery and the like, and kept this as a relic and as an heirloom. It was given to the woman who asked Mansfield about it by a friend, a member of the family to which the original maker of the razor belonged.

Doubtless many persons have relied in their possession that they would like to know the history of, because some surprising things may sometimes be revealed.

A written communication from anyone may be read unopened and the writer described. The story is told of a prominent man who received an anonymous communication from a person, and who discovered the author by the means of Mansfield's psychometric powers.

These wonderful faculties ought to receive more attention than they do. There seems to be some doubt on the part of a great many regarding their existence. However, it is such a simple matter to demonstrate the truth of their actuality that there should be no skepticism on this point.

Nothing is easier than to test the reliability of these qualities. All one has to do is to make a personal investigation and bring forward the right sort of test.

No thinking person doubts that these powers do actually exist, from the indubitable evidence that can be furnished and is supplied by the writings on the subject. It is only a question of specific cases. Does such-and-such a person possess these powers? I know they exist, because I have heard so much about them—but does Mansfield, for instance, possess them in actuality? When the question has narrowed down to this point, it is time to make an investigation.

There is some hesitancy sometimes apparent in crediting the fact that the future may be prejudged. No one questions that it is possible to reason from a given premise to a certain conclusion. It is only a matter of logic, that if you are given a certain premise and follow it out logically you are bound to come to a certain conclusion. It is the same way, and the only way, in correctly predetermining what is to happen.

Nothing occurs by chance. There is an invisible cause back of every circumstance, no matter what it may be. Learn these causes and their tendency, and you can learn what their results will be.

There is no mystery about it. It simply argues knowledge to work on. Anyone that had the knowledge could do the same. If one can secure this material to work upon through the agency of the soul-forces, it will not argue superhuman ability to follow up the logical sequence and find out what is to happen.

Set a ball to rolling and you know that it will go in a straight line until stopped. You can prophesy where it will end up. You can predict with great accuracy that a marble sent across the room will hit a certain wall, or a certain article.

Thus, if Mansfield can secure knowledge to work upon through his subtle soul-senses, this is the wonderful part and not the drawing of inferences from that which he knows. Yet, the delicate perceptive faculties that will enable this man to trace the history of a piece of ore, or a ring, or a letter, will be able to supply missing threads of knowledge which may be needed to construct a tangible prediction as to what will happen to you in the next month or year.

All things are wonderful until they are common. All things are termed miracles until they become customary, and then, while they are no more understood than they were at first, yet they are no longer miracles, but things of everyday occurrence. Because of the existence of these super-physical powers of deducing knowledge from all sources are new to many, they are disposed to discredit them in some instances. Yet they are susceptible of proof.

PRAYER GAVE WOMAN "GIFT OF TONGUES"

TOLEDO, Jan. 12.—Strange things are happening at the training school for missionaries just outside the city of Alliance, O., and conducted by Levi R. Lupton. Lupton and four young women pupils say they have received the "gift of tongues."

Lupton says he has been praying for years for this wonderful gift. "Recently," he declared, "I was under the power of God, as though in a trance for eleven hours, and when I awoke, I was able to speak five languages."

Miss Mayne Corlett of Cleveland, who prayed devoutly for two days for the power, says she had the same experience.

"I cannot interpret all that I was able to speak," she said today, "but I can understand some of the sentences."

WHY HE SHOT SELF

2 NEW COURSES AT UNIVERSITY

Lectures to Be Delivered by the Director of the Philippine Bureau of Education.

BERKELEY, Jan. 12.—With the arrival next week of Dr. David P. Barrows, director of the Bureau of Education of the Philippine Islands, who is to give two courses at the university this term on the Philippines, an excellent opportunity will be given for a systematic study of the problems of government that have come up for solution in connection with our Asiatic possessions.

One of these courses, "The People of the Islands," will consist of general lectures dealing with the different phases of the life of the many peoples constituting the vast population of these islands. The second course, "The Ethnology of Malaya," is more technical and more strictly anthropological in character. It will be a consideration of the general ethnological, linguistic, and other relations of the peoples of Malaya, the subject being considered from a more technical and scientific standpoint. This is particularly designed as a course for students of anthropology, or some of its allied subjects.

In addition to these two regular courses of lectures Dr. Barrows will give under the auspices of the university several popular topics in connection with the Philippines and the Orient.

These lectures announced by Dr. Barrows are a part of a general plan of the department of Anthropology, which was organized through the generosity of Mrs. Phoebe A. Hearst. According to this plan it is hoped to be able to broaden the scope of this department of the university by offering from time to time special courses of lectures by eminent investigators upon the peoples of the various important ethnological divisions of the world.

INSTALLATION OF OFFICERS OF NATIVE SONS

BERKELEY, Jan. 12.—There was a large attendance last evening at the installation of officers who are to serve during this year for Berkeley Parlor of Native Sons of the United States. The ceremonies were held at N. S. G. W. hall, and were followed by a banquet. Fred A. Boynton was toastmaster.

A number of visiting Native Sons were at the board. One of the visitors, Charles Peterson of Alameda, was the first to respond to the toastmaster's call, and started the evening's current of gaiety by a few remarks most happily appropriate to the occasion.

Stuart Wilson rendered a brookline solo, and "Pop" Thompson of Brooklyn Parlor gave a short speech, followed in similar strain by George Seranski of Alameda Parlor. M. H. Shuey of Berkeley parlor rendered a whistling solo that won much applause. George Furlong accompanied him on the piano.

The toast "Friendship" was responded to by Dr. C. A. Meek of Berkeley; that of "Loyalty" was answered by a visiting brother, Mr. Welch of San Jose; P. B. Herndon of Berkeley was the response to the toast of "Charity." "Berkeley's Progress" was the sentiment met by R. A. Berry in a clever speech, and Clyde E. Abbott closed the toasting by his apt response to "The Ladies—God bless them."

DEMISE OF VENERABLE SAN FRANCISCO WOMAN

BERKELEY, Jan. 12.—Mrs. Mary E. Ackerman, aged 72 years, a resident of San Francisco, died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. G. W. Skilling, in this city at 2:30 o'clock this morning. There she had been visiting since the holidays. Although she had been slightly ill for several days it was not thought her illness would prove fatal, and her end came as a crushing blow to her family and friends. Deceased was a native of New York. She is survived by the following: children, Sylvan Ackerman, New York; Mrs. C. M. Elliott, Iowa Falls, Iowa; Mrs. C. A. Hill, Alameda; Mrs. G. W. Skilling. Funeral arrangements have not yet been made.

Coy Widow Worth Million Says One Has Not Yet Asked Her.

NEW YORK, Jan. 12.—"One man has asked me too often to marry him, and I wouldn't. And the other man hasn't asked me at all, and I wouldn't. Maybe I'm waiting for the right American boy. Maybe," Mrs. Goldie Mohr-Wood, said.

Dispatches from Allentown, Pa., state that announcement has been made of the engagement of Mrs. Goldie Mohr-Wood, former actress, widow of the late plate angler, and mistress of more than $100,000.

Mrs. Wood was seen tonight in her miniature palace at the Barnard and was asked about this, and also concerning the glowing letters she has received from Sir Francis Chandler, most ardent admirer for the lady—and the money.

The former actress laughed for a long time, then became coy and finally said: "Nothing in the rumor. Mr. Stearns is a chum of my brother Warren."

"Well, do you intend to marry the young man?" Sir Francis asked.

Mrs. Wood was asked.

She made the reply quoted above.

Pointing to a secretary in the room she continued in a tone which braced awe and solemnity: "See that box? It's asbestos lined. Yes, sir; if it were not for the asbestos lining I should be burned up any day. The fervent, fervid missives of Sir Francis are contained therein."

PRODUCES LOVE LETTERS.

Becoming gay again, Mrs. Wood produced some of these gems of love-making by mail.

"Here is a sample of what his masterly, moving, luscious, and to make her love."

"Uncle Sam, Jerry, through the mail."

Mrs. Wood said, holding a letter with affected tenderness.

MINERS NEAR STARVATION

Occupants of Cabins Along Alaska Beach in Serious Situation.

SEATTLE, Wash., Jan. 12.—From forty to fifty people, in miners' cabins along the Yukon coast of Alaska, are on the verge of starvation. Their condition is so serious that the Government has been appealed to send in a vessel with supplies. Though acting tardily in the matter of the imperiled people, whose straitened circumstances were called to the attention of the authorities several weeks ago, the Government will now dispatch the United States revenue cutter Rush from Sitka.

The crowd now so closely pressed for food includes nine women and six children.

for you. You need a protector—a man with a heart and soul as big as your own body, who will protect and shield you from the evils and cares of this cruel world, you are so young, so frail. I love you, etc."

"Wouldn't you like to become Lady Chandler and wear a crown?" was asked.

WIDOW AMUSED.

"If I were one of those things and looked in the glass it would fall off. I'd laugh so much," said the little widow.

"Whenever I'd say anything I thought was real bright, you know, his lordship would say, with the utmost cleverness and originality, 'Just fawney!'"

Wasn't that real nice of him, and he'd nearly roll his eyes out looking at the stars and get out of breath sighing. I had a lot of fun out of his antics. He said American men are really brutes, don't you know, and not fitted to love pretty women. In the middle of his maulings he would interpolate some question about when my estate was to be fired up."

"He also borrowed money from me when he'd take me to lunch now and then."

"Then he said, as these letters will show, 'Oh, my dear, you are my sun, my moon, my stars, my everything, dearest, and the stars are very pale, oh, very pale, when I get into the limpid depths of your stare eyes. When I see your estate to be settled, my only love!'"

"In another letter the Englishman, who was called for his vast, extensive estates in Hampshire," as Mrs. Wood calls them, says:

"I want to say that you have not my name, as I feared that the press would get it. But you will be gone then."

IS STRANGLED IN SALOON FOR $125

NEW YORK, Jan. 12.—Chas. Hellwig, of No. 25 Washington street, Hoboken, was garrotted in the saloon at No. 54 Cortlandt street yesterday by two men, who were later captured after a hard struggle with four policemen. Hellwig was strangled into unconsciousness and in a bad way when rescued. The hold-up men got only $125. They said they were John Patterson and Frank Pierce, a half-breed New York State Inlian, who gave his occupation as a gambler. He was recognized, the police say, as a man who had served several terms in reformatories. In his possession was a rank book showing $842 in deposits in the name of Alexander de Moutax.

HEARING OF CONTEMPT CASE

Judge Whitson Will Consider Motion to Strike Out Witnesses' Affidavits.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 12.—In the United States Circuit Court yesterday the case of Andrew Furuseth, charged with contempt of court in disobeying an injunction issued by Judge Morrow restraining him and other defendants from interfering with the vessels of the Hammond Lumber Company, was commenced. There are other defendants, including the Sailors' Union, the Marine Firemen's Union, the Cooks and Waiters Union and the members of those organizations. The case is being heard by Judge Whitson.

J. W. Dorsey for the Hammond Lumber Company read affidavits showing that Furuseth and the members of the unions interfered with the steamers Arctic, Ravalli and Francis H. Leggett.

Henry W. Hutton, attorney for the defense objected to the reading of the depositions, as they did not give any names of the alleged offenders or the names of the launch. The defendants were not responsible for the acts of unknown men.

A deposition by Henry Ach was that during the taking of a deposition by Furuseth in a civil suit he stated that the Sailors' Union had emptied certain tactics in the strike which were in defiance of Judge Morrow's injunction.

Frederick M. Pennell, secretary and manager of the Hammond Lumber Company, testified that large gangs of spooks from the Sailors' Union visited the Arctic and boarded the vessel after the injunction had been issued. When the strikers were told that Judge Morrow had issued the injunction, one said that Morrow nor any other judge could stop them. That Secretary Schleifer of the Waiters' Union told him to tell the vessel if he wanted to. He had heard Furuseth give orders to the strikers. When he wanted them to board a boat he never would use names, but designated them by numbers.

Judge Whitson took under consideration the motion to strike out the depositions.

Bridget Finn says her husband treated her like a Prince.

WINE REVEL IN BOX CAR

Tramps Have High Old Time and Leave Letter of Thanks.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 12.—The freight train on the Santa Fe road which reached this city on Friday morning had in it a number of cars which had crossed the continent in bond. One contained a shipment of 1800 cases of champagne consigned to a local agent. As there was a request for a speedy delivery, Surveyor Woodward detailed an inspector to unload the goods. The customs seals placed on the doors at New York were found in perfect condition, but as soon as the doors were opened, it was found that the car had been broken and some of the wine stolen.

Three of the cases were broken open and the packing used for a bed. Upon the top of one case were the remains of a fire, and a count of the cases revealed that fact that one containing 241 pints, had been taken from the car. An examination of the top of the car showed that the railroad seals which had been placed on the ice box had been broken and access had been gained that way to the box. The thieves then broke through the slats of the partition separating the ice box from the main compartment of the car.

There was plenty of evidence of a high old time. The fire had made the place comfortable even in the cold desert. Empty bottles were scattered around.

That the revelers were an appreciative lot is shown by a note left by them. It was pinned on the top of a case and read as follows:

All on Board Santa Fe Railroad 66

Dear Sir: We are very much pleased with your shipment, which enables us to have a very enjoyable evening, which we very much enjoyed. Yours very respectfully,

"BREAKEYMEN"

It is a felonious offense to break a customs seal and the men evidently knew it, as they were not touched.

WELCOME COAL CARGO

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 12.—The first shipment of coal to reach here in many days came into port this morning on the African Monarch, the British tramp. In the hold of the boat there are 5326 tons of coal, consigned to Hind, Ralph & Co. The ship is unloading at Pierson-street wharf No. 2. The run from Newcastle, N. S. W. was made in thirty-two days. As yet the coiler, Germanious, which has been daily expected, has not been sighted. There arrived today also on the steamer Mackinaw 2193 tons of coal. The Mackinaw was ninety hours from Seattle.

TOOK MONEY TO TEST LOVE

Mrs. Verrault Now Scorns Red-headed Swain; Says He Is Swineherd.

NEW YORK, Jan. 12.—Another hearing to determine whether Mrs. Bina F. Verrault had used the United States mails with intent to defraud ended just about where it began so far as eliciting much real information which would warrant giving Mrs. Verrault a chance to tell a Federal grand jury all about her love affairs goes.

Mrs. Verrault is the lady with the luminous dark eyes who became "Helen Hamilton," widow, when she made use of personal columns, or wrote letters of love to Leo Kessler, of the Mutual Life Insurance Company or James S. McClellan, a grocer in Philadelphia, or Gregoire Gallinoff, of Fifth Avenue.

"Poor Mrs. Verrault," he said, "to look bored by the series of hearings, although she sat up straight today and took enough interest to object to Assistant United States District Attorney Dorr's questions as to her reputed bank account."

Kessler was on hand to tell Commissioner Shields all he knew about his own costly acquaintance with the fair defendant, who wouldn't grant him even so much as a glance over the milk fur collar of her lamb's wool jacket.

After the hearing, Mrs. Verrault expressed her appreciation of Kessler's "staying powers," as she termed it, despite the fact that she had made him blush earlier in the day by telling the commissioner that the Hungarian's family had long been professional swineherds.

The discovery of this painful fact, she said, had ruled out her ardent and red-headed swain from consideration in her pursuit of an "ideal." She never would have taken his money, she testified, if she hadn't been going to test Kessler's love. She took all he gave, and would have taken more if she had had the chance.

MY IDEAL? I GUESS NOT!
"Do you blame me if I did?" she asked. "Here was this man, who told me he was manager of the foreign department of the Mutual Life, with $100,000 a year salary, a graduate of Heidelberg and a nobleman of about $2000, which such a man having about $2000, which he himself says is all he ever gave me. And then to find out he's only a clerk and of a family of swineherds! That my ideal? I guess not!"

That lovely $600 turquoise locket which McClellan gave Bina the money to pay for is still in her possession, but the commissioner said the defendant needn't tell the name of her woman friend who made the purchase. Mrs. Verrault only curled her lip when her counsel declared that McClellan and Kessler were no "innocents abroad."

ACCUSES DEAD OF MURDERING

Hypnotist Billick Crazed With Fear Denies That He Poisoned Family.

CHICAGO, Jan. 12.—Herman Billick, fortune teller and hypnotist, accused of murdering six members of the Verrault family, was confronted at the inquest by his 16-year-old son, Herman Billick, Jr., who gave damaging evidence to connect his father with the crime.

Young Billick told of the charms manufactured by the fortune teller to bring good luck to the Verrault family and which were supposed to have been sprinkled in the yard at the Verrault home. He related his confession to the police that Billick and Mrs. Emma Verrault turned on the gas in a room where two of the Verrault girls were sleeping, and left them to be asphyxiated.

While the son was giving testimony which may send the father to the gallows, Herman Billick sat crunched in a chair, his fingers nervously twitching, his eyes haunted by fear. The boy collapsed at the conclusion of the testimony.

Only once did Billick completely lose his self-control. That was while Mrs. Emma Verrault, the Verrault daughter for whom Billick prepared love charms was testifying. He leaped from his chair and shouted:

I didn't poison them, Emma poisoned them!

A new witness in the case appeared in the person of Miss Josephine Riha, 18 years old, who declared that she was poisoned with Mary Verrault.

"We were poisoned," the girl said, "by chopped meat given to Mary by Herman Billick."

Miss Riha also testified to having been told by Mary Verrault of a mysterious order which frequently was found scattered over the floors and walls of the Verrault home, and which was described by Billick as "poison."

"Mar told me that Billick had prepared the meat for her luncheon," said Miss Riha. "That was two weeks before she died, on August 31. Mary gave me some of the meat. We divided our luncheon, and after we had eaten it, we both became sick. Mary had to go home, and soon after she died. I've never been well since. I am sure the meat was poisoned."

Concerning Our Furniture Sale

—of Odds and Ends—Rain

One week ago today we announced, with full-page advertisements the beginning of our great January Sale of Odds and Ends of Furniture—it rained.

Hundreds of people were unable to leave their homes, and with the exception of a day or so, attention at the sale was almost impossible—and so tomorrow.

We will try again, hoping for better weather, giving the same values we agreed to give in last Sunday's announcements and a few more besides.

Our sale, this year, has been planned upon broader lines than ever before, for all department stocks are greater and heavier than at any time previous, and the necessity of a thorough clean-up is unusually urgent.

To the housekeeper, to the hotel man, to everyone using furniture, we say that this is WITHOUT QUESTION a sale that will appeal to you strongly, as a splendid opportunity to make a substantial saving of money.

Every odd line that we have reduced appears upon the floor with a large sale ticket attached, showing the original price and the sale price. The reductions vary according to the urgency of cleaning up the line. You can attend and, without the aid of a salesman, see in a short time every article in the sale.

Come tomorrow and investigate thoroughly. See those $50 mahogany-finished parlor sets at $35—those big, comfortable velour couches for $7.50—those 90c parlor tables—those $5.00 solid quarter-sawn oak rockers for $3.00—those $22.50 bedroom sets that were $30—those $12 music cabinets for $8.50—those $22.50 china cabinets—the great values in rugs and carpets—and the hundreds of other reductions.

You'll not regret a minute of the visit, for every minute will show a way to make a dollar. In completely furnishing a home you ought to save several hundred dollars at this sale—in furnishing a single room you can save $20 or $30.

All our old patrons know what this sale means and wait, sometimes for months, for its inauguration—those who are not familiar with our aggressive clean-up methods have a surprise in store.

WILL MEET AT STOCKTON

Sixth Annual Session of Building
Trades Convene Next Monday With 300 Delegates

The Iron Trades Council tomorrow night will consider the question of managing the eight-hour work day in the iron industry. The movement will affect sixteen organizations affiliated with the council, and their 14,000 members. At present the iron workers work nine hours.

The sixth annual convention of the State Building Trades' Council which opens at Stockton tomorrow, promises to be the most important and successful yet held by that body. Over 300 delegates will be in attendance representing over 200 unions and 5,000 building artisans. The past year has been an exceedingly prosperous one with the organization and its members the body having more than doubled its membership. Its finances, so Secretary-Treasurer Twelme says, are also in a healthy and flourishing condition.

Among the important questions that will be considered by the convention is that of Japanese exclusion and the attitude of President Roosevelt on the question, also the matter of political action by the organized workers especially in reference to aiding the State Union Labor party in advancing its interests and plans for electing candidates both State and local and carrying out certain policies affecting measures favorable to the wage-earners of California.

There will also be a large number of trade jurisdiction questions to be determined and much of the time of the convention will be taken up in adjusting these controversies. One of the important trade jurisdiction questions involves the cement workers the plasterers and bricklayers. The plasterers and bricklayers have laid claim to certain work in connection with reinforced concrete construction, which work is held by the cement workers to be theirs exclusively. There is also a jurisdictional question between the lathers and the housemiths, which has also engendered a bitter controversy between the two crafts.

DEFINING NEW COUNTY LINES

Prospect Over a Warm Contest
Over the Annexation of Coalinga.

SACRAMENTO Jan. 12.—Of the several bills that will come before the session of the Legislature with a view of changing and defining county boundaries and establishing new counties, the measure to be introduced by Assemblyman William L. McGuire of Hanford, Kings county, cutting off the rich Coalinga oil fields from Fresno county and annexing it to Kings county, promises to cause quite a struggle between the two interested counties. Incidentally, if the boundary line is changed Kings county will become just about twice as large as at present while Fresno will still be one of the largest counties in the State. McGuire seeks the chairmanship of the committee on counties and county boundaries so that he may, but he is not sure, support his bill in the Lower House.

McGuire's argument in favor of the proposed change indicates that there is much merit to it. The district in question is desert land and was worth but little before the discovery of oil around Coalinga. Since then it has been a great revenue producer for Fresno, but because of the isolated condition of the land the residents claim they are unable to enjoy the benefits from Fresno county, that they should in order to reach the county seat the people must ride through Kings and Tulare counties if they make the journey by train, three days usually being required for the round trip. Consequently much time is lost by those who are called to Fresno for jury duty or to pay taxes. On the other hand, it is but thirty-five miles to Hanford, the county seat of Kings county. During the recent election the people of the Coalinga district lent their moral support to McGuire in his campaign, and through him to have the county boundary changed. Although they voted in Fresno county, the Coalinga people are the Assembly district represented by F. W. Chandler of Fowler. In the last election Chandler was out by about forty-six votes over Tom O'Donnell, Democrat of the oil district, who had previously pledged himself for change of the boundary. In the new territory O'Donnell got nearly all of the votes. Chandler realizes that he will be much safer in his Assembly district if the districted people are put over into Kings county.

Assemblyman E. A. Baxter, a Democrat, of Wawona, wants an act defining county lines claiming that now in some of the remote parts of the State it is impossible to tell just where the lines run. Senator Howard A. Broughton, of Pomona, will revive his county division bill of two years ago which got through both Houses but failed to meet with Governor Pardee's approval. The measure will enable people to form new counties without going before the Legislature.

RUSSIA PLANS NEW RAILROAD

Laying the Foundation Possibly for a New Effort to Gain Far Eastern Supremacy.

(Special to THE TRIBUNE by the Hearst News Service over longest leased wire in the world.)

ST. PETERSBURG, Jan. 12.—The fact that the Council of Ministers is seriously considering a proposal by Prince Khilkoff, the Minister of Railroads, to construct the Trans-Siberian Railroad along the lines originally laid out before Russia occupied Manchuria is taken to mean that the Government anticipates a renewal of the struggle for supremacy in the Far East. The proposed line would be entirely in Russian territory. The purpose of the line at present is purely strategical and was evoked by the former managers of the road.

SALVAGE CLAIMED ON A PORTO RICO SHIP

NEW YORK, Jan. 12.—The salvage for the rescue of the steamship Ponce may amount to $200,000, according to experts on shipping who discussed today the chances for a great "haul" for the German steamship Riksmers. If such should be the price paid for saving the disabled liner of the New York and Porto Rico Steamship Company it will mean her owners will lose just half of the combined value of the ship and cargo.

Although the officials of the line said they were confident an amicable settlement would be reached out of court, Theodore Rodgers, New York agent for the Riksmers Steamship Company of Hamburg, would not talk of the matter. This and other circumstances are taken to mean that the German company will ask salvage to such an extent that the American company will refuse to settle until directed to do so by the court.

MANY GO TO THE SCAFFOLD

Children of Russia Sentenced for
No More Serious Offense
Than Robbery.

ST. PETERSBURG, Jan. 12.—Russian public opinion has become so dulled by repeated horrors that even the wholesale execution of "child revolutionists" excites no attention.

In the past three months more than 150 minors—boys and girls—have been executed by the field courts-martial instituted by M. Stolypin. The majority of these were more than 18 years of age, but more than a score of boys and girls of 17 and several of 15 and 16 years of age have been sent to the scaffold.

The vast majority of these children were guilty of no more serious offense than ordinary robbery.

The Stolypin ministry has persisted in the theory that the way to restore peace to Russia is to execute a certain proportion of men, women and children. Whether they are guilty or innocent is immaterial, indeed, innocent persons are being hanged every day.

AGNES TOBIN'S FAME.

The story of the spread of it is one of the features of this week's Town Talk. A critic has pronounced the San Francisco society woman Pin-tarch's greatest interpreter. The Spectator tells of the triumphs of a Californian actor who has risen to the top of the profession in America. Some very interesting paragraphs are devoted to the expectations of Schmitz's attorneys and to what they are saying about Henry. The remarkable career of Ambassador Bryce is discussed, and his works are quoted from to show why he is likely to get close to President Roosevelt. But perhaps the most interesting of all the striking features of this enterprising weekly is a letter from Dr. Albert Abrams of this city, from Paris, in which is disclosed the facts of one of the greatest medical discoveries of the age, made at the Pasteur Institute. Among the special articles is one by Theodore Bonnet, dealing with a Harvard professor's discovery of the literary values of the Bible.

There are three properties in this advertisement which you must not overlook. 1st; The lots we are selling in East Oakland. 2d; The beautiful home on Magnolia street. 3d; The $50,000 corner on Telegraph avenue. We believe them the best buys in the city today.

The other properties are good too—exceptionally so as investigation will prove. You can resell any one of them sixty days from now at an advance. Their prices are based on their actual market value—not on what the owner's neighbors tell him he ought to get.

We deal in no swollen values, pocket no unearned commissions, but act fairly and squarely with buyer and seller alike. Buy through us and we safeguard your interests as carefully as we do those of the seller.

Have you 3500 sq feet of floor space to rent? An Eastern Publishing House desires a floor in a down town building for office and loft purposes you can get a 40x100 foot lot in a built-up neighborhood, with street work done, sidewalks down, sewer, gas, etc. The lots lie from two to four feet above sidewalk level with no abrupt slope. We are selling them at $20, $23 and $25 a front foot, half cash, and balance in one to three years. Just 15 lots left—lots that at their price can't be equaled East of the lake.

A corner on 25th and Myrtle has been given us for $3600. It is three blocks from San Pablo and three to the Key Route station. The land will steadily increase in value and in the meantime it will net you about 8 per cent.

If you are looking for a big comfortable home, in a spacious yard and on a quiet street, we have the place. It is the home of an Oakland merchant. The house has eleven rooms, 2 baths, etc. An east front and sun from morning till night—the yard is 80x135. Lawns and flower beds, like the house, are in perfect condition. If you like a roomy house or have a large family by all means see this place Monday. Price, $8000.

If you want to break into something here see us Monday about the stable we have for $7500. This price includes the buildings, lease of ground for 4 years and 5 months at $70 per month, 45 horses, harnesses, 18 buggies, 2 surreys, and 10 wagons.

Above the stable are 5 rooms which would rent for $50 while an express company has desk room for $12, thus bringing your rent down to $8 per month. Ninety horses are regularly stabled and the present owner guarantees a net income of $700 a month. He is even willing to let you pay a deposit, try it for a month and if the books don't show $700 profit, to refund you your deposit. This is one of the few down town stables that don't have to move within the coming year.

If you are looking for something on which you can clear a couple of hundred dollars in the next sixty days, our corner on Popular and 26th, is what you want. Its size, 75x108, makes it admirable for warehouse purposes. Five blocks away from the $10,000,000 docks of the Key Route, six blocks north of the Santa Fe freight terminal, and, with the Key Route already on Popular, it is a genuine bargain at $1600. The Metropolitan Furniture Co. has a warehouse 100 feet away.

Telegraph avenue corners, close in, are at a premium, hence one, 130x150 feet, well improved and returning over 6 per cent interest on $50,000 may be considered a gilt edge proposition. $15,000 cash will swing it, balance on terms to suit buyer.

We have a corner on Webster street, above 7th that will pay you 11 per cent on $45,000—its purchase price. The improvements are new, six stories and forty-five rooms, all leased to one man for 5 years at $410 a month net. Let the S. P. shift its power to electricity, as they plan to do this year, and you should stand to clear ten to fifteen thousand dollars on this.

We have a two-story house on East 22d street, a block west of the 8th avenue car line, for $4300 furnished or $4000 unfurnished. It is on the north side of the street, has six rooms and bath and is in excellent condition. Basement is large enough for three more rooms which would always be dry as the drainage is good. Lot is 80x150, neighborhood all right, and the terms reasonable in the extreme.

We have 35 acres of ground just east of Fruitvale ave. It is high, slightly rolling and admirably adapted for platting. Neighbors tell us cottages sell here before they are half completed. The Key Route has already surveyed within a block of the tract for the extension of their lines. We will be glad to take up the matter of price with any one interested.

On the north side of 23d street, close to Telegraph ave., we have a modern, substantially built home for $6000. It has six rooms, bath and a 6 ft. basement. Its proximity to town, Key Route and Telegraph ave. make this an especially desirable buy. Terms can be arranged to your satisfaction.

10 per cent on your investment, which is better than bank interest and just as safe.

WANT TO SEE FIREMEN RUN

Amateur Theatricals Turn Mind of Young New York Man.

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., Jan. 12.—Students of psychology have taken up the case of James Roberts, who was sent to the Elmira Reformatory, having pleaded guilty to setting fire to buildings just to see them burn and to see the firemen run to the fire. It is known that Roberts' impulse to burn buildings found no manifestation before he was cast for a part in an amateur performance of a play by a local author called "The Fire Bug," which was produced last year.

The plot of the play concerns the villainy of the heavy man, who plans to steal a large box of diamonds, with which he proceeds to buy his election to a position in the fire department. The villain sets fire to the house of a rich man that he may steal the diamonds in the role of a fireman extinguishing the flames. Roberts had a small part, that of a tough who rushed into the burning building and seized the diamonds, which he turned over to the villain, saying, "Here, Cap, is the box you were looking for. Now I will get money with which to go to South Africa."

It was said today that these lines were all that Roberts had in the play. During the rehearsal there were several alarms of fire which set the fire department dashing through the town looking for the fire, and Roberts, in several instances, was on hand to see that his own company was first to answer the alarm. For sending in a false alarm on election night he was arrested and fined $25.

WAS TOO GALLANT.

MILLVILLE, N. J., Jan. 13.—A broken hook on a woman's skirt caused much trouble for train officials here. As Conductor Stiles of the Cape May accommodation train called out "All aboard," he noticed a woman hurrying to the train. As she reached the platform her skirt fastenings broke. Stiles held the train while she made the necessary repairs.

At the next station he received a message from Train Dispatcher Coleman at Camden asking for an explanation of the delay. Stiles wired a long message telling of the episode, but no rule permitting such delays can be found in the railroad rule book, and the conductor is cautiously awaiting further developments.

Nothing pleases a homely woman so much as to have a man compliment her figure.

POLICE SCOUR CHINATOWN FOR SLAYERS IN TONG WAR

San Francisco Detectives Aid in Search, but Clues Appear to Be Very Slight.

Very little developed yesterday afternoon in the rounding up by the police of the murderers of Lee Boon Tung. Detectives Holland and Kyle have been working on the case, but the clues have been slight.

At the request of Chief of Police Wilson, the San Francisco authorities Friday night took into custody and searched all Chinamen who entered San Francisco by the ferries. Woo Him and Ah You were taken to jail, as pistols were found in their possession.

The prisoners were brought to this city yesterday and will be held here pending the investigation of the murder.

The wounded man at Providence Hospital was reported last night as being out of danger. Doctors will operate on him this morning to extract the bullets that entered his body.

SOCIALISTS DENOUNCE THE GERMAN KAISER

BERLIN, Jan. 13.—American campaign methods are being used during the present Reichstag campaign, which is one of the bitterest ever seen in Germany.

The Socialists are on the warpath in full force and have thrown all fear of less majestic overboard in their eagerness to defeat the government, which one Socialist paper, the Vorwarts, ac-causes of trickery.

"To defeat the will of the people and rob them of the victory which must otherwise be theirs the military authorities have planned to mobilize thousands of troops, especially in Berlin and Upper Silesia, during the next two weeks, thereby depriving all these men of their rights to vote."

The official press, of course, denounces this accusation as a glaring campaign lie, but it is nevertheless very likely that such a thing has been intended and if it is not carried out it will only be because the government fears public opinion will revenge the act.

Judging from the official news which arrives from the German colonies in Africa, the Hottentots and other natives have taken pity on the Kaiser and his government in their present pitiful situation, for they are exceedingly busy surrendering to German commanders.

Colonel Deimling, commander-in-chief of the German military forces in Southwest Africa, is keeping the cables hot telling how promising everything looks down there. The government's colonial venture, according to his cables, is to be a great success after all. The troops may soon be withdrawn, 6000 of them before the first of July, and the rest to follow in rapid order.

"Toymaker" Continues at Idora Park--Clever Play at Liberty--Macdonough Attractions.

That jolly combination of fun and music, "The Toymaker," is still attracting large audiences to Idora Park, and could evidently run indefinitely, but the management has decided to withdraw it after one more week. This will make its fourth week of the longest run of any production at the West coast of San Francisco. No more amusing entertainment for the young folks can be imagined than visit to Idora Park, to witness this performance, and parents should note the fact that there are but three more matinee and secure seats in good time the down town box office at Sheridan, Clay & Co.'s, Thirteenth and Broadway.

Monday evening, January 21, the singing will be "The Queen's Lace Handkerchief" by Johann Strauss, the "Waltz King," and this will be one of the finest productions yet attempted, especially from a musical standpoint, for the opera stands in the remotest ranks of light musical comedies.

The cast will be a very large one, and Sybil Page, Bernice Holmes and Eugene Wiener make their reappearance in this work.

The new $50,000 skating pavilion is rapidly approaching completion, and will be opened with a grand promenade concert and skating session Friday evening, Jan. 25. It will be unquestionably the largest and finest rink in the world.

A production of Victor Herbert's great work, "The Wizard of the Nile," is in preparation.

SCHUMANN-HEINK.
All musical Oakland is in a fever of excitement over the announcement that Schumann-Heink, the greatest living contralto and interpreter of song, is to give one concert here and the only evening concert she will appear at in this vicinity.

The concert is under the direction of Will L. Greenbaum, and will be given at "Ye Liberty Playhouse," Monday evening, January 21.

A most interesting program will be offered, including songs by Handel, Beethoven, Schubert, Richard Strauss and others, and there will be two specially attractive features that will entice hundreds of music lovers from San Francisco. The first is the complete "Song Cycle" of eight numbers, "Frauen Lieber und Leben," by Robert Schumann, and the second three beautiful numbers, with organ accompaniment, Mr. Wallace Sabia having been engaged as organist.

The program will be entirely different from the artist's program in San Francisco.

The prices for this event are: $2.50, $2.00, $1.50 and $1.00, and the seats will be on sale Wednesday morning at the box office of Ye Liberty. No telephone orders will be accepted and mail orders must be accompanied by check or money order. These must be called for at the box office any time up to the hour of the concert, as the management does not care to accept the responsibility of mailing them.

Schumann-Heink is one of the most important figures in the history of modern music, and no music lover can afford to miss this rare treat.

On Monday afternoon the great prima donna appears at the Greek theater, Berkeley, with the complete orchestra of the university playing her accompaniments.

"QUINCY ADAMS SAWYER?"
The village gossip wondered who he was, what he was, what he came for, and how long he intended to stay. They were anxious to find out all this about a young lawyer from Boston named Quincy Adams Sawyer, who had come to live in a small Massachusetts village for a year or so. A very successful book, which has its famous title from this young man's name, was written around Mr. Sawyer's doings in the country and around the village gossip who "wondered" all these things about him, and now the book in play form is to be elaborately produced here at the Macdonough Theater all next week. A strong company of well-known players appear in the production. It has proven the best New England play ever written, during the successful run at the Academy of Music in New York City. Seats now on sale.

YE LIBERTY PLAYHOUSE.
Next week Manager Bishop has an attraction of unusual interest and merit to offer his patrons at Ye Liberty Playhouse. In the German comedy, "At the White Horse Tavern," which was adapted by Mr. Sydney Rosenfeld from the German of Blumenthal and Kadelburg, both of whom are the brightest of German comedy writers.

"At the White Horse Tavern" is a wholesome, irresistibly good-humored satire on tourist life in the Alps, into which are woven a series of excellent character studies, naturally and substantially drawn. The story of "At the White Horse Tavern" concerns an inn, The White Horse, which is situated on the shore of a lake at the foot of the Alps in the Austrian Tyrol, where tourists, guides, and peasants meet on equal terms. The hostess is in love with a young lawyer, one of her guests, who is trying to win the hand of a wealthy manufacturer's daughter. For a time the hostess does all in her power to secure the lawyer for herself, and when she finds her case is hopeless, hides her disappointment, and, recalling her head waiter, a persistent, audacious woman whom she has allowed to leave her service, reengages him and agrees to make him happy, saving with a philosophy hardly to be expected under the circumstances, "If you can't get the man you like, try to like the man you can get."

The production of "At the White Horse Tavern" will be made under the direction of Mr. George Friend, who was a member of the original cast which presented the English version in New York. Mr. Friend will be seen in his great characterization of Leopold Brand, the head waiter, a part in which he has received the most congratulatory notices from the press throughout the entire country. Henry Shumer will be seen as William Gleske, the wealthy manufacturer, who is traveling against his wishes, and Franklyn Underwood as the young lawyer in love with his daughter, Isabelle Fleichman. The English version of the "White Horse" and Laniers Stevens, George Webster, Robert Harrison, George Cooper and all the members of the Bishop players will be seen in the cast, which is an exceptionally long one, numbering over twenty acting roles.

The famous rain scene, one of the most novel effects ever shown on the stage, will be seen at the close of the first act, and will be given exactly as it was in the original production of the play.

"At the White Horse Tavern" will be presented for positively one week only and will be followed by "The Lady of Lyons."

on any stage. The Comstock company is to present one of the laughing hits of the season, a one-act sketch, replete with humor and wit. The bill will also include The Dunbars, singing, dancing and talking comedians, who have played the largest circuit of vaudeville houses in the world for three seasons, and who have always met with success. Vernie R. McPherson is to sing an illustrated song and two reels of motion pictures will be shown. Three performances are given every day, a matinee in the afternoon and two performances in the evening.

NOVELTY THEATER.
The Novelty theater still continues to do a tremendous business at the pretty playhouse on Broadway. Manager Guy Smith has made the place a great success. The program next week includes some of the greatest acts in the country. They are worth seeing.

holds up the California prune as an "emblem of peace," contending that good prunes put every one in a good humor and change a man's fighting moods. The same may be said of good peanuts. Besides, a great many more peanuts are consumed every year than prunes. The peanut crop is worth almost $10,000,000, while prunes average not more than $6,000,000. Each has its place in the social economy, but I'm wondering where Lehnhardt gets that fine black walnut pit candy. There's harkness of peace, all right. Ask Mrs. Minister. Only Organization Men Will be Given Place on Big Committees.

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Jan. 12.—Speaker R. L. Beardslee is still working on the standing committees of the assembly, and will have them ready for announcement Monday. Only organization men may hope to find their names at the head of the important committees. From present indications, the following slate will go through with but few changes.

Miguel Estrada, of Alameda, ways and means, Grove L. Johnson, of Sacramento, judiciary, A. M. Drew of Fresno, insurance, William L. McGuire, of Hanford, city and county boundaries, Nat. Coghlan, of San Francisco, federal relations, George W. Root, of Grass Valley, mines and mining, J. J. Wyatt, of Salinas, reform and legal revision, Phil Walsh, of Oakland, and J. P. Transue, of Los Angeles, are apt to head good committees, but it is generally understood that Phil Stanton, of Los Angeles, who headed the ways and means committee two years ago is to be given a minor assignment.

WHEREIN THEY DIFFER.

"Character," remarked the thoughtful thinker, "is one thing and reputation is quite another."

"Wherein do they differ?" queried the very young man.

"A good character is a luxury," explained the T. T., "but a good reputation is a necessity."

BIG LEGAL BATTLE ON

Mistake in Drawing Up Deed to Piece of Land Starts Controversy.

A legal battle over a $20,000 piece of property has been started in the Superior Court because of a mistake that is said to have been made in drawing up a deed for several lots in the Houghton tract. W. C. and A. Grondons and J. Folcia have commenced suit against Lincoln H. and Charles C. Davidson to recover the title of the property now in dispute. They allege that a deed was made with the Davidsons for the sale of lots 7, 8, 9 and 10 for the sum of $12,000, but lots 1, 2, 3, 4, 5 and 6 were erroneously included in the deed. The plaintiffs claim that the property is worth $20,000 and they have offered that amount to the Davidsons but they have refused to consider the offer.

TOY AUTO CAUSES BABY BOY'S DEATH

NEW YORK, Jan. 12.—While playing with a toy automobile, little three-year-old Charles Miller ran into the jam of a door yesterday in the nursery of his home. No 181 Rutledge street, Brooklyn, and the shock caused a nut he had in his mouth to lodge in his throat.

His mother carried him to a drug store a half block away in hope of aid, but the obstacle resisted every effort to dislodge it. When an ambulance that had been telephoned for from the Eastern District Hospital arrived the child was dead. This is the second child Mrs. Miller has lost in two weeks. The other died of pneumonia. It is feared she may lose her reason.

DEFEAT NEAR SPITE POLICY

Not Probable That Building and Loan Board Will Be Killed.

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Jan. 12.—While there has been considerable talk during the past two days to the effect that the legislature would abolish the building and loan commission and re-establish a new one in order to nullify Pardee's appointment of Al Lindley and Assemblyman J. P. Transue of Los Angeles, as commissioners, thus resorting to the same tactics that Pardee did four years ago to rid himself of some of Gages' men, it does not seem probable tonight that the scheme will be carried into effect.

Although this is an organization legislature, many of the members will not accept the policy to carry out such political spite. Among these is Speaker R. L. Beardslee, Herrin's man at the head of the assembly. The Stock and bond market declared that the commission is a very important thing, with a considerable amount of business ahead of it. He considers Transue and Lindley especially qualified for the work and will not do anything toward ousting them.

Transue and Lindley went to San Francisco today to attend the first meeting of the commission, and express every confidence that they will hold their jobs for the term for which they were appointed by Pardee. Gullitt also seems disinclined to take up the organization's fight in this sort of politics.

A strong effort will be made also to prevent the legislature from abolishing the office of attorney for the State Board of Health, to which Pardee appointed J. Arthur Elston, his former secretary. The organization is contending that this $2000 position is unnecessary and that the work might be very easily done by the attorney-general's office.

NEW YORK, Jan. 12.—Herman Pierce was sitting in barber shop in Carmine street when his wife passed with a baby in her arms on the other side of the thoroughfare. Drawing a pistol he rushed to the door, shouted to her and opened fire. Two bullets went wild. The woman dropped the child and ran into a butcher shop.

Pierce followed her. As Policeman Haggerty grabbed him by the shoulder the man fired a third time, the bullet entering his wife's arm as she lay on the floor. Pierce was dragged away, and Magistrate Sweetser held him in Jefferson Market for felonious assault.

Pierce and his wife were separated and the police had been looking for him with a warrant charging him with abandonment. His wife said he often beat her.

Agents of Insurance
Combine at City of Sacramento.

THE KNAVE

Sylvia Gerrish and the Wrecks of the Old Bohemia.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 12.—The old insurance lobby is up at Sacramento as bold as brass. A new set of men are working the pipes this time, but the same old combine is putting up the money to prevent the Legislature from passing laws that will adequately protect the public from graft, fraud, and imposition. The agents of the Eastern and foreign companies are the kingpins of this combine, and they force the local companies into line by threatening to cut rates till the local concerns are driven out of business unless they stand in.

The insurance combine is a trust in the most vicious sense. It fixes premiums, commissions, the rating and the conditions of doing business to suit itself, and makes war on any company that refuses to enter it or abide by its rulings. Any company that dares to defy its edicts is styled an "outlaw," and it is vigorously "knocked" by every insurance manager and agent connected with the combine. A concerted effort is made to drum up questionable business for the so-called outlaw companies, and wherever the "pull" can be exerted official power is used to hamper, nag and harass them into knuckling to the orders of the combine, which regularly puts up a sack for corruption purposes at Sacramento.

The insurance sack has been in evidence at every session of the Legislature since the new constitution was adopted. Sometimes it has been handled with a boldness and prodigality astonishing to even the veterans of the lobby. The fire in San Francisco opened the eyes of merchants and property-owners to the deficiencies of the insurance laws of California, but the public is not yet awake to the fact that the deficiencies are due to the nefarious influence and corrupt practices of the underwriting combine having its headquarters in San Francisco. The combine has now engaged slick lawyers and slicker mazuma men in the hope that the old practice of "soaking" the public for excessive rates and evading responsibility will not be disturbed.

So, if the insurance legislation recommended by the Governor, the Insurance Commissioner and the Chamber of Commerce fails at this session it will be proof that the insurance sack has not lost its potency nor the legislative palm its old-time itching propensity.

"Times change and men with them." The speaker leaned over the bar and bent his head forward as he nervously lifted the glass of whisky to his lips. Everyone in the place knew him as the wreck of a once brilliant newspaperman. Twenty golden years ago he was one of the few smartly dressed men that paraded Kearny street. Today he is a hanger-on, a sponge, mentally, physically, morally and financially a being rejected of men. He has no hope of pulling himself together and those who were once anxious to prevent his ruin have long since ceased to bother about his finish.

But I remember when his company was courted by all the merry men and dashing women who made up Bohemia. By Bohemia I don't mean the sham that has become such a fad of late, but Bohemia in the real sense of the word. I mean the crowd of happy-go-lucky spirits who nightly foregathered around the tables of the Italian, French and Spanish eating places of the Latin Quarter, the men who founded the Bohemian Club, the painters, poets, writers and actors who made old San Francisco famous the world over.

The brightest, gayest and prettiest citizen of that little kingdom over which poor Dan O'Connell reigned was Sylvia Gerrish. Two weeks ago she died in New York a pauper, and it was the news of her death that caused me to look with interest and curiosity upon the rag of a man nervously drinking the glass of whisky at the bar. For he was present at the famous dinner when Dan O'Connell cut a pet curl from the pretty head of the dashing Sylvia.

"Pete" Biglow, Dan O'Connell, Sylvia Gerrish and the wreck at the bar had been dining in the good old 50-cents-a-plate-with-red-wine fashion, when a messenger boy entered and handed Sylvia a note. She read it, smiled, and addressing Biglow said: "Pete, I've got to go."

The note was from one of the wealthiest bankers of the day, a man of family, of professional respectability and a pillar of the church on the side.

"I'm going up to the Riche," she continued. "This old fool has fallen in love with my curls. Tomorrow night we'll all dine here at this time and the dinner's on me."

The curls in question were twin circles that hung over her temples, a form of hair arrangement considered very fashionable in those days. As she got up to go, Dan O'Connell said:

"Sure, I'm in love with them myself."

"You're more welcome to them than he is, Dan, my boy."

"Well, you'll have to prove it," replied the bard of Erin.

"Name your game," laughed Sylvia, who was the most envied woman in the place.

"Give me one of the curls," demanded Dan.

"Waiter, bring me a scissors," said Sylvia. A moment later she handed the scissors to O'Connell, who in the presence of the entire assemblage cut the curl from the left temple of the careless beauty. As he held the tiny locks between his thumb and forefinger, Sylvia produced a bit of dainty blue ribbon. In another instant she had the curl tied to the lapel of Dan O'Connell's coat and was on her way to the Riche.

Then Sylvia went East, became a raving stage beauty, was known to New Yorkers as the "girl with the poetical legs," and finally married Harry Hilton, the reckless young millionaire. Together they squandered two fortunes. He died an imbecile and she passed away a mental and physical wreck in the home she ruined a few weeks ago. The scenes of former grandeur in that mansion had faded away long before, and the walls of the room in which she died had been stripped of their gorgeous hangings to buy her drugs.

After drinking the glass of whisky the wreck at the bar said to the bartender: "I read in the papers that Sylvia Gerrish died a pauper in New York."

"I never heard of her," replied the young man, as he busily wiped the glass.

"Times change and we change with them," mumbled the wreck. Then he passed out into the night.

They certainly passed the "bookies" a fine, fat lemon when they put Dr. Sherman over the home plate at odds of 60 to 1 at the Emeryville track last week. The horse was well played in the ring, one book being landed to the tune of $2900. All of the hand books on both sides of the bay were hit hard below the belt. But, of course, the cigar-stand and curb-stone frenzied financiers only got 25 to 1 for calling it right, that being the limit of odds outside the track. The poolrooms at Sausalito, Sacramento, San Jose and Los Angeles were also touched up to the Queen's taste. I am told agents were sent to these towns to make a series of small bets. There were no large individual wagers, as those behind the deal knew that anything like a plunge would excite suspicion and dwarf the odds. It is estimated that $35,000 all told was the clean-up.

You don't have to go to Ancient Rome or Greece now to find the real things in men of might. There was a time when the name of Horatius was something to conjure with. His famous fight at the bridge when he with two companions held the 30,000 barbarians at bay may or may not be true; but there is no questioning the feat of Maurice Buckley, the gallant lad who with a single sledge-hammer beat the 1500 murderous Greeks into submission during the battle in the Mission last Sunday.

Mr. Buckley is a mild-mannered man, as all fighters outside the booze-fighters generally are. He is as tame as Hicks, the man who made the fifteen days' fight for life while imprisoned in the heart of the Bakersfield hills. It takes a whole lot to make him mad, but when he gets mad, then everyone but Riley must stand aside.

If the King of Greece had a few men like Buckley in his army he would have no trouble breaking away from the thralldom of the double-dyed Turk. If they held a few other men like Buckley in Ould Oirland, the ever-green land of his birth, the Home Rule problem would be solved with no more ado.

In the ballad of Horatius Lord Macaulay tells of how:

"Alone stood brave Horatius; but constant still in mind
Of thirty thousand foes before and the broad flood behind."

Then called he to his friends to keep the bridge with him. Later he appealed to "Tiber, Father Tiber," and other things to help him in his fight for the world's championship. Not so Maurice Buckley. When the horde of unwashed Greeks fortified with bordelaise dressing charged on him with picks and shovels and bricks and spikes and their dialects, what did he do? He didn't appeal to anything in mythology, nor did he seek in any way to steal a march on his foes by occult means. He just reached for his trusty sledge-hammer and charged. And the way those 1500 Greeks took to the woods would make Lord Byron ashamed of having ever stood for such a tribe.

More power to you, Buckley! You're a credit to the ould sod! In days to come a golden sledge-hammer will be erected to your memory. You're a man, me bye, an' any one who disputes it I dare them to tell it to my face.

Just listen to your uncle when he tells you that there will be no Lexow investigation of the San Francisco waterfront. There are too many men interested and too many big interests involved. There will probably be some cleaning up and scraping off of the barnacles, but I shall be greatly mistaken if there is a general ripping up that will show up how affairs on the waterfront have been managed for the last twenty years.

Investigations are dangerous things, and there is considerable loose dynamite lying around the San Francisco waterfront. No one can tell where an investigation will stop or what it will reveal. The big insurance exposures in New York resulted from an attempt to force E. H. Harriman out of the Equitable Life Assurance Company. An investigation instigated by J. Pierpont Morgan, George W. Perkins, Thomas F. Ryan and their associates in financial piracy, was started to smirch Harriman and force him and his friends off the Equitable directorate.

Everybody knows what a muss it raised. Harriman fought back and forced an investigation of the management of the New York Life and the Mutual Life. Morgan, Perkins and Ryan were pilloried, and now Perkins and Charles S. Fairchild, a big bank president and one time Secretary of the Treasury, are under indictment for misappropriating funds belonging to the policy holders. Senators Chauncey H. Depew and Thomas C. Platt, along with Dave Hill and other big political guns, were shown up as being on the graft list. When the investigation got fairly started nobody could stop it, and it has created no end of trouble for a host of people.

The San Francisco water front is loaded. If it is ripped up by a thorough exposure there will be an explosion and the biggest kind of a stink, for a mess has been accumulating there for a generation.

A row is being made because Senator John H. Nelson insists on serving in the State Senate while holding the office of City and County Recorder, he having been swept into office by the last Schmitz tidal wave. As usual, the local papers are abusing Schmitz for Nelson's attempt to hold two jobs and draw two salaries, but Schmitz is not to blame.

The Auditor has only to veto Nelson's salary warrant as Recorder to bring the matter to a head and judicially determine Nelson's right to be Senator and county officer at the same time.

However, Nelson's case is no worse in essence than the practice of giving Senators soft jobs on the waterfront. Indeed, it is better, for Nelson can be his own man, but the Senator who holds a job on the water front is pretty apt to vote the way the men who hold him there want him to vote. At Sacramento he represents his job, but Nelson doesn't have to vote as anybody directs to hold his. However, if the water front is to be investigated the business of giving State jobs to Senators will probably be gone into extensively.

The house of Fair is rapidly tumbling to the ground. If the work of demolition continues, in a year or two not a stone will remain upon a stone. The great ranch in Yolo county is already under the hammer of the auctioneer, and there being no male heir to the millions of the close-fisted Senator, it is only a matter of moons when a name that once was synonymous with the great wealth of California and Nevada will be nothing more than a memory.

Old Fair prided himself on the great ranch at Yolo, which he grabbed from Reed in a very ungentlemanly manner. He stocked it with prize cattle, especially cows, and made all arrangements to convert the vast stretch of land into an estate along the lines of the great houses of his native land.

But, alas! he builded weaker than he knew. The death of his son James and later the tragic passing of Charley Fair wiped out the name. Henceforth his vast fortune is for men and women of other names—Vanderbilts, Oelrichs, etc.

In addition to the sale of the ranch, the Fair family has figured in the news in a very unsavory manner during the week. I refer to the suit against Frank Daroux and Joe Harvey, the poolroom operators and all-around gamblers, for $2000 on a note due Mrs. Vanderbilt and Mrs. Oelrichs—a legacy from the estate of the late Charley Fair. And, strange to say, the suit to recover on this paper has been settled out of court and as an explanation for the strange finish, Joe Tobin, the attorney for the women in question, states that the proposed contest was all a mistake.

But along the line it is whispered that the note was a dividend from one of the gambling games in which Fair, Harvey and Daroux were mutually interested. As Joe Harvey in his time has been identified with many a queer game, it is not at all pleasant to have your name linked with his in reference to the green cloth or the dice box. But especially is this so should your name be Vanderbilt or Oelrichs.

However, the sacred name of Vanderbilt is not unfamiliar to the gamblers of the east. It was a Vanderbilt who was mixed up, I don't remember just how, with the scandals that grew out of the crooked games that were canned at Canfield's. The Oelrichs, too, have occupied some space in the newspapers that prudes refuse to read.

So taking it all in all you can see that the future of the house of Fair is not as roseate as the old Senator fancied it would be when he exercised all means, legitimate and otherwise, to make his pile. And when you come to figure it out from a common-sense standpoint it is hard to understand how such a finish could be avoided. There was none of the milk of human kindness in the make-up of the North-of-Ireland gold-digger. He regarded charity as a dangerous form of insanity. His desire was to try to get blood from a turnip. He thought nothing of wrecking the lives of others if he could spy something to his own advantage in the smash-up.

Now, in accordance with the eternal law of compensation, his end should be such as he planned the end of others to be. There is nothing that happens to one's self that does not happen to another. The vengeance we wreak will ultimately be wreaked upon us. So when he deliberately plotted the annihilation of men and women who stood in the way of his wishes, he unconsciously planned the destruction of himself.

And if you sum up his life, what do you find? He made money and lost his family. His children were glad to learn of his death, and he died alone. They thought he lived too long. Now all the things he cherished are passing into the hands of others. Soon even his name will have faded away.

With all his success as a money-grubber, his efforts to build things that would remain after him and perpetuate his memory have failed.

TRUSTS CONTROL BIRTH RATE 'BABIES KEEP THE WEALTHY' WOMAN SCORES RACE SUICIDE

Mrs. Commander's Book Arraigns This Country for Preferring Money to Children--Babies in Sweatshops:

A farmer who lives close to the ground and cannot altogether be deprived of his living, is in a better situation to be a family man than a good wage earner in the city, who can be starved out a fortnight after the pay envelope is stopped.

The American nation cares nothing about its children. It is no encouragement to a woman to be a mother when she looks around and sees how the country treats its children. We send them to the sweatshops, and in our large cities, such as New York, our landlords don't want them.—Lydia K. Commander, author of "The American Idea."

NEW YORK, Jan. 12.—"The American Idea," a book that is likely to create as great a furor as Mrs. Herbert Parsons' "The Family," has just been written by Lydia K. Commander, the young woman who, seven years ago, in conformity with her own advanced ideas, became the wife of the Rev. Herbert N. Gasson, to remain so "as long as love lasts."

Mrs. Commander (the right to retain her own name being one of the points of the marriage contract) and her husband have written and spoken on economic subjects from pronounced points of view, but no previous effort has attracted a fraction of the attention that is sure to be devoted to "The American Idea."

PUTS BLAME ON THE TRUSTS.

That the trusts are responsible for America's race suicide is one of the principal points of her argument, and by her exposition of the country's economic condition today she makes her case step by step, involving the unwillingness of the well-to-do women to assume the burden of motherhood, the difficulty of children receiving even ordinarily decent treatment in New York City, and the fact that Americans are so money-mad that the nation cares absolutely nothing about its children.

The book, which is to be published within a week or two by the A. S. Barnes Company, is replete with startling arrangements of social conditions. Unlike Mrs. Parsons' book, it is not a scientific work, but rather a study of causes of a broader nature than the physical. While the author deplores the small American families, she relieves American women of all blame, and practically admits that the problem is too great for any one person to suggest remedial measures. Rather than a complaint it is a suggestion to the country to consider whether the United States needs money or children most.

BABIES IN THE SWEATSHOPS.

"It is amazing," said Mrs. Commander last night at her home, 330 West Ninety-fifth street, "to find at what tremendous speed the real American birth-rate is falling. 'Race suicide' as a phrase may not convey a full meaning to the general public. It should be called the suicide of America, for in my opinion we need children more than money.

"American women are justifiably beginning to believe that the country does not want children and that as a nation we care nothing for them. If we cared anything for children, would we let them go to the sweatshops?"

"In the mills of the south and the sweatshops of New York it is an actual fact that children four and five years old, mere babies, are put to work. In the comparative sense it is the hardest kind of work, for it is robbing them of the chance of development that is necessary for the sturdiness of the race.

"And it is because hundreds of thousands of babies like this are put to work that some of our idle rich are enabled to lounge away their time.

"After careful consideration, I have come to the conclusion that one of the greatest hindrances against the preservation of the American race is the great American trust idea, the idea of money accumulation at any cost.

"FEAR HOLDS DOWN RATE."

"There is today in the hearts of many, I might almost say most of our young men, the idea that the future is uncertain. The trusts have brought about the economic conditions responsible for that fear. No man wants a family unless he is reasonably certain that with it he can go to a successful old age. The uncertainty spreads to our women.

"It is fear that holds down the birth rate. Out in the country, where there are larger families, the reverse of this condition is observable. The farmer has a greater sense of security. If he has a little land he knows that in the event of hard times he may not be able to sell his products, and that he may have to sail pretty close to the shore; but at the bottom of his heart he also knows that he can always get enough to eat out of his land.

"In our big apartment houses every room is finished so that a child, naturally destructive, is sure to do some damage. The landlords don't want their property damaged; so they bar children. I wouldn't for anything in the world want to discourage this destructiveness, for it is indicative of a child's mental development.

CENSURES THE "MIDDLE CLASS."

"The roofs should be utilized on every big house, and there should be an indoor playground. It would make the city happier.

"There is one stretch on Fifth avenue, fifteen blocks long, on which there are only fifteen children. It is here, where women have unlimited wealth, leisure and liberty to bring up good families, that fewest children are to be found.

"I visited twenty-two apartment houses containing 455 families, in which there were just fifty-four children, or about one child to every nine families. These are between Washington square and One Hundred and Thirtieth street."

Mrs. Commander regrets the very poor having large families which cannot be properly brought up. She says the birth rate is controlled by people of the middle class, who are accustomed to more than the very poor and less than the very rich have.

"FEELING OF SECURITY NEEDED."

"It is only when our great capitalists create a greater feeling of security in the country, that the United States will get back to its proper birth rate," she adds. "I am opposed to immigration under existing conditions.

"We need brains in this country, and as the years go by we will need them more. So long as those who come from other countries are up to the proper mental capacity, there is no reason in the world why they shouldn't come here. However, it is a very grave thing to allow our native birth rate to go down and allow the foreigners to come here in unlimited numbers."

Discussing the conditions which make it impossible for working women to become mothers, Mrs. Commander finds a new point of attack. In this class she includes municipal employees who are forbidden marriage.

DENOUNCES IDLE WOMEN.

"It is like asking her to choose between her right hand and her eye-sight," she says. "She is entitled to both. A perfect womanhood requires both work and motherhood.

"It is a national mistake to put barriers in the way of capable, energetic women becoming mothers.

"The idle women now maintained are supported at the expense of a working childhood. The wealth that might be produced by women now unemployed, their energies going to waste, would keep and care for and educate all the million and three-quarters of miserable, tolling child slaves who are growing into stunted and dwarfed manhood and womanhood.

"The nation cannot afford working babies and idle women.

"Paradoxical as it may be, the nation is disappearing in the effort to survive."

Mrs. Commander, who is identified with the Equality League of Self-Supporting Women, is childless, and last evening confessed that she was guilty of the very sort of thing she preaches against.

This is a picture of Miss Evelyn Cavendish-Bentick, who will be deprived of a brilliant church wedding when she becomes the wife of Walter Burns, because Mr. Burns is a divorced man. Father Black, a noted English clergyman, whose opposition to the remarriage of divorced people amounts almost to a mania, announced that he would create a scene in case they were married in public.

ANSWERS TO CORRESPONDENTS.

Owing to the fact that Miss Beatrice Baldwin, who edits THE TRIBUNE's page for women is daily receiving letters from the fair sex seeking information, this paper has decided to establish a department where all such inquiries will be answered. Heretofore it has been the policy to make replies to the women through the mails, but so great has become the task that it is deemed necessary to answer questions through the news columns. Anything pertaining to women, the heart and home will be discussed by Miss Beatrice Baldwin on this page. Our fair readers are invited to communicate with her, addressing all letters to MISS BEATRICE BALDWIN, editor Women's Page, OAKLAND TRIBUNE, Oakland, California.

Dear Miss Beatrice Baldwin: I am very unhappy at home. My mother does not seem to understand me. She thinks I should be doing housework when my heart is set on being a poetess. When I am in my room composing the sweetest little poems, she interrupts me without the slightest consideration for my feelings, and I lose my best thoughts. What shall I do? Do you think I should leave home and try to earn my living by writing poetry?
Yours expectantly,
ELIZABETH E.—

Elizabeth, dear, do you know how many poets have starved while writing poetry? And do you know how many mothers have grieved themselves to death over daughters who have found their interests outside of home? If you are well read in poetry you know what George Herbert said about the poetry of sweeping a room clean. There is a beauty of poetry about each commonplace task—if our eyes are opened to see it. And there is a stern reality about the most romantic situations that takes away all the poetry connected with them when we have become intimate with the situation. La Boheme is beautiful on the stage, but the cold and poverty is very trying when you try it for yourself. It is very real when your fingers are too cold to grasp the pen and your brain is benumbed from starvation.

If you have a talent for beautiful things, cultivate it—and the pictures framed by your window panes. Write of the homely but beautiful sacrifice of your mother's life. See the grandeur of the every-day work that gives unselfishly, always gives and never takes. If you cannot be a poetess in the environment of your home-life with its interruptions and worries—then never hope to be a true poet in any sense of the word.

The enclosed poem shows you have a talent for rhyming, but because of the subject chosen I cannot tell if you have the vision divine.

Remember there was once a man of whom it was said:
"A primrose by the river's brim,
A yellow primrose 'twas to him
And nothing more."

To some men it would have been as a tropical garden of rare flowers—uplifting, inspiring, beautiful in its little life of duty done as a primrose. What would it have meant to you?

Write me again, Elizabeth, if you think you can be a true poet, who sees the poetry of common life.

WANTS TO BE PLUMP.

Dear Miss Baldwin: What can I do to make myself plump? I am so thin that people think I am sick, when I am perfectly well. My face is especially thin and my cheeks are very hollow. I would not be bad-looking if I had a little flesh on my bones. Do tell me something that I can do to improve my figure and get round baby cheeks again.
NEILLIE S.—

Near Nellie: If you can drink milk without becoming bilious, drink all you want, especially before going to bed at night. If milk doesn't agree with you, drink buttermilk. Both are very fattening and good for the complexion. Wash your face in buttermilk and let it dry on. After bathing your face and body in hot water, rub in a good cold cream or skin food and persist in it. Do it every night for two months, then write me again. Eat potatoes and plenty of bread and butter, and drink water all you can. Walk a little daily and if you care to try it, take Vaucaire's preparation. I can give you the prescription for it if you wish.

AFRAID SHE'S IN LOVE.

Dear Miss Baldwin: I am worried about something. I have a friend who is very kind to me, and I am afraid I am in love with him, while I am not at all sure that he cares for me other than a friend. He visits me, takes me to the theater and is always kind, but never speaks in a love-like way. I find myself watching for his coming, wanting to see him, and what to do about it. I do not know. We are such good chums that I fear we will never be anything nearer and dearer. I am ashamed for having allowed myself to think so much of him. I have let my other friends go and given myself almost exclusively to his society. How may I show him that he is not treating me fairly to take so much of my time unless he means to ask for it all for himself some day?

Yours,
MARGARET M.

Dear Margaret: All men are selfish and most men are thoughtless, but few men seek exclusively the society of one woman, unless they mean to win her for a wife. Only a scoundrel would do this purposely.

Be cordial when you are with him, but be with him less. Make yourself valuable by being hard to win, until you see his intention plainly. Then if you find he is really desirous of being with you always, and shows his love for you in any way, do not try him by coquetry, but show him that his advances are not unpleasant to you and he may step over the boundary line from friendship to love. But believe me, that the sincere friendship of chums that ripens into love is more lasting than the love at first sight that often fades as fast as it ripened. Real love grows.

Be a little shy—but never seem offended or "touchy." Be sincere and stand aside till he insists upon closer relationship. Men like to woo, not to be wooed, and true women like to be won, not to win.

WANTS TO BE AN ACTRESS.

Dear Miss Beatrice Baldwin: I think you may be able to advise me. I want to be an actress. I have considerable talent. I often take leading parts in amateur theatricals, and everyone congratulates me. I love the stage, and know I would be a success if I only

SENT ON ERRAND; LEAVES APPENDIX WITH PARCEL

On Delivering Letter at Hospital He Asks "Doc" to Cure the Pain in His Stomach.

CHESTER, Pa., Jan. 12.—As ten-year-old Oliver Christy, an errand boy, employed at Cline's commission house, delivered a package at Crozier Hospital, he said to the nurse who took the bundle: "Say, nurse, I've got an awful pain in me stomach. Can you get doc to give me sumthin' fer it?"

Dr. Kenworthy, the resident physician, appeared in the corridor while the lad was talking with the nurse, and taking Oliver into his office, made an examination. He found the youngster was suffering from an aggravated case of appendicitis.

If an operation was delayed Dr. Kenworthy knew the lad could not live, so he was taken to the operating room and the appendix removed. He will recover.

Knowing nothing of your home life, I cannot take that into consideration in writing and simply answer your question. But be very, very sure that you have a decided talent for hard work and a disposition not easily conquered by difficulties. Success in any line is won only by those who have a genius for hard work.

BAD BARGAIN BETTER BROKEN THAN IF KEPT

Ex-Mayor Wins Breach of Promise Case by Pleading That He Has Consumption.

BALLARD, Wash., Jan. 12.—James

E. Zook, ex-Mayor of Ballard, has won the famous breach of promise suit brought against him. During his official term in 1904 Mayor Zook and Miss Rosana Grover of Pollard were betrothed. The latter had the preparation of her wedding trousseau well under way when Mr. Zook suddenly broke the engagement, giving as his reason therefor that his fiancée was afflicted with consumption.

Miss Grover sued for breach of promise, and, in spite of his plea, a Washington jury gave the plaintiff judgment for $10,000, which was cut to $6000 by the trial judge. An appeal was taken and ex-Mayor Zook has just won in the Supreme Court.

That tribunal has reversed the judgment of the Superior Court on the theory that a bad bargain is better broken than kept and has directed the dismissal of the case.

It was brought out in the first trial that in breaking the engagement Mr. Zook told Miss Grover that he believed it was for their own best interests, as well as society in general, that they should not marry. The fact that both of his parents had died of consumption was urged as a further reason for their not marrying.

In an exhaustive opinion written by Justice M. O. A. Root of Seattle the court says:

"The question presented to the court is this: Did appellant, under the circumstances, have a legal right to disregard the promise of marriage he had given respondent? In the domain of morals it is a maxim that a bad promise is better broken than kept. Moral considerations must have a predominating influence upon such a question as now confronts us. In fact, they are the basis and the life of the law applicable in a case of this character."

"Any person entering marriage, knowing himself to be seriously afflicted with pulmonary tuberculosis, violates the spirit, if not the exact letter, of the statutes enacted to prevent the spread of that disease. The same is true of one who marries another knowing him or her to be thus afflicted. An agreement, which, if executed, would thwart the beneficent purpose of such statutes, ought not to be held binding."

FOR THE HOUSEHOLD.

If the oven is too hot for bread set a dish of cold water in it.

A tablespoonful of stewed tomatoes or catsup added to the gravy of roast meats is thought by some to improve it.

To clean finger marks from paint wipe the spots first with a cloth dipped in warm water, then with a cloth dipped in whiting, and wipe again with a clean, damp cloth.

CLERGY SHOWS BITTER FEELING AGAINST POPE

Many Archbishops, Bishops and Priests Homeless in France as a Result of Church Trouble.

PARIS, Jan. 12.—Now that there is no longer any doubt that the separation of church and state has come to stay in France, the majority of the French clergy are beginning to feel very bitter against the Pope, or rather the Cardinals at Rome, who are responsible for the crisis.
There are at present seventeen archbishops, sixty-seven bishops and 45,000 priests practically homeless in France, and although some of these have consigned against the republic for years, the greater part of them are patriotic Frenchmen, who greatly de-

GROWLING AT ROYAL PALACE

Servants Make Complaints Because Christmas Presents Were Not Costly.

(Special to THE TRIBUNE by the Hearst News Service over longest leased wire in the world.)
LONDON, Jan. 12.—There is still much growling at Buckingham palace among the royal servants who are the victims of the new economy practiced by the King and Lord Parkhurst.
The Christmas presents given this year were not so valuable as those given last year and not nearly so costly as those given in the days of Queen Victoria, who was over generous in these matters. The butlers and stewards have little to complain about, but the royal footmen, who have little to do but to look ornamental, are loud growlers.
In the late Queen's time there were so many of them at Windsor Castle that the late Sir Henry Ponsonby frequently complained of their idleness. Now the staff has been cut down to reasonable proportions and the Christmas gifts as well.

Dr. Schweninger Asserts That Many of His Colleagues Are Incompetent.

(Special to THE TRIBUNE by the Hearst News Service over longest leased wire in the world.)
BERLIN, Jan. 12.—The physicians of Germany have never loved Dr. Schweninger, formerly physician to Prince Bismarck and Richard Wagner, and they love him less now than ever, since he after having submitted to their attacks in silence for years, has published a book, "The Doctor," in which he makes the astonishing statement that ninety per cent of his German colleagues are incompetent and not fit to be even veterinary surgeons.
On those in good health it had practically no effect, but in a number of cases of articular rheumatism Dr. Lowenthal noticed that, as in the case of mineral baths, the pains at first increased, but that afterward the patient recovered slowly, the same as by the use of certain such baths.

(Special to THE TRIBUNE by the Hearst News Service over longest leased wire in the world.)
BERLIN, Jan. 12.—Judging from the official news which arrives from the German colonies in Africa, the Hottentots and other natives have taken pity on the Kaiser and his government in their present pitiful situation, for they are exceedingly busy surrendering to German commanders.
Colonel Deimling, commander-in-chief of the German military forces in southwest Africa, is keeping the cables hot telling how promising everything looks down there.
The government's colonial venture, according to all cables, is to be a great success after all. The troops may soon be withdrawn, five thousand of them before the first of July, and the rest to follow in rapid order.

RADIUM GOOD FOR THE BODY

Has Effect Similar to That of Mineral Baths, Says Physician.

(Special to THE TRIBUNE by the Hearst News Service over longest leased wire in the world.)
PARIS, Jan. 12.—It has been discovered that radium has a similar influence on the human body to that of many mineral baths.
This conclusion has been come to by a Doctor Lowenthal. In a glass of water containing a quarter of a litre he placed three tenths of a milligramme of bromide of radium wrapped in paraffin. The water thus treated by the emanations of radium was given in various forms to a certain number of persons.
On those in good health it had practically no effect, but in a number of cases of articular rheumatism Dr. Lowenthal noticed that, as in the case of mineral baths, the pains at first increased, but that afterward the patient recovered slowly, the same as by the use of certain such baths.

DIVINE SARAH IN NEW ROLE

Announced Bernhardt Will Appear as Mephistopheles in Faust.

(Special to THE TRIBUNE by the Hearst News Service over longest leased wire in the world.)
PARIS, Jan. 12.—Parisian playgoers have been startled by the announcement that Sarah Bernhardt is shortly to play the part of Mephistopheles in a version of "Faust," which is being prepared by Henri Batallie, the talented young playwright.
Before playing Mephistopheles, however, and directly after the "Herve d'Avila" is taken off, Mme. Bernhardt is to enact the part of a hunchback jester in a play entitled "The Burlesque."
There will be but three more "Toy-maker" matinees at Idora Park. This afternoon and next Saturday and Sunday afternoons. Seats at the matinees are only 25 cents for the best.

INVENTION OF NEW AIRSHIP

Flying Machine Perfected by Frenchman After Ten Years of Labor.

(Special to THE TRIBUNE by the Hearst News Service over longest leased wire in the world.)
PARIS, Jan. 12.—A flying machine which uses as its flying power the attraction of the earth, has just been invented by a Frenchman named Bobenrieth, a native of Roubaix.
The machine consists of a main platform surmounted by a balloon filled with gas. In order to raise it from the earth three pairs of wings are fixed to the frame, while the front of the machine is supplied with another pair of wings, which are intended to be used as a rudder.
The machine has no propeller, but is carried forward by the force of its own weight. It is lifted into the air until the required height is attained, and then tipped downward by the pilot, which causes the rudder to come into rapid motion and the airship is carried forward.
It has taken M. Bobenrieth ten years to perfect his invention, which he hopes the French government will buy.

MONEY TO AID FRENCH CLERGY

Large Donations from Catholics Now Are Arriving at the Vatican.

(Special to THE TRIBUNE by the Hearst News Service over longest leased wire in the world.)
PARIS, Jan. 12.—From Rome comes the news that large donations from Catholics in all countries are arriving at the Vatican to be used in assisting the suffering French clergy. It is also rumored that the Pope has asked all cardinals residing in Rome to give up half their income for the benefit of the French priests, and that they have all assented willingly.
While this may be true, it is safe to say that they will probably do so less willingly in the long run, but as they provoked the crisis, it is no more than just that they now be made to pay the piper.
For that drowsy, tired feeling and loss of appetite there is nothing as good as Lash's Kidney and Liver Pills.

REICHSTAG CAMPAIGN THE BITTEREST EVER WAGED

Socialists on Warpath in Full Force and Have Thrown Fear of Lese Majeste Overboard.

(Special to THE TRIBUNE by the Hearst News Service over longest leased wire in the world.)
BERLIN, Jan. 12.—American campaign methods are being used in the present Reichstag campaign, which is one of the bitterest ever waged in Germany.
The Socialists are on the warpath in full force, and have thrown all fear of lese majeste overboard in their eagerness to defeat the government, which one Socialist paper, the Vorwaerts, accuses of trickery.
"To defeat the will of the people and rob them of the victory which they otherwise be theirs," says this paper, "the military authorities have planned to mobilize thousands of troops, especially in Berlin and upper Saxony during the next two weeks, thereby depriving all these men of their right to vote."
The official press, of course, denounces this accusation as a glaring campaign lie, but it is nevertheless very likely that such a thing has been intended, and if it is not carried out it will only be because the government has to dissemble and fears public opinion will revenge this act.

FUTURE OF TWO BRITISH PRINCES CAUSES CONCERN

King Edward Favors the Army, While Wales Would Send Them Into the Navy.

(Special to THE TRIBUNE by the Hearst News Service over longest leased wire in the world.)
LONDON, Jan. 12.—There has been much speculation as to the future of the two elder sons of the Prince of Wales. The King and Prince have held opposite views on the subject, but the prince has been forced to climb down.
The latter wished both sons to join the navy, but the king insisted that the eldest boy should join the army. The matter has been compromised. Both boys will go to the Royal Naval College at Osborne, after Easter, and remain two years. Later on the eldest boy will prepare for the army.

MAY SEEK THE DIVORCE COURT

Matrimonial Difficulties of Earl and Countess of Lytton Cause Talk.

(Special to THE TRIBUNE by the Hearst News Service over longest leased wire in the world.)
LONDON, Jan. 12.—Country house gossip is now busy with the names of the Earl and Countess of Lytton, whose matrimonial difficulties have been the subject of talk for months.
Great efforts are being made to reconcile the couple by friends of both, but it is feared that the divorce court may be the scene of another cause celebre.
Lady Lytton, who was married in 1902, was Miss Pamela Plowden, the daughter of Sir Trevor Plowden, an Indian official, a girl without money or a very high position, who won her way into the smartest set in London by her wit, good looks and push. She was the most "written-up girl" of several seasons, and no one admired her more than Winston Churchill, who, however, will not be dragged into the case.
Lord Lytton may be the petitioner, but Lady Lytton will bring counter charges. Lord Lytton is only moderately popular.

"WOMEN FAIL AS DOCTORS"

Such is Opinion of Prof. Van Bergmann, Famous German Surgeon.

(Special to THE TRIBUNE by the Hearst News Service over longest leased wire in the world.)
BERLIN, Jan. 12.—Another famous German surgeon, Prof. Van Bergmann, is in trouble as a result of declaring that women are absolutely unfit to be doctors.
"I am most decidedly against women studying medicine," he said the other day, "for they are not physically nor mentally equal to the task."
"So long as male cooks and male tailors exist—that is as long as we men are unable to claim the cooking and sewing trades as their monopoly—they cannot compete with male doctors."
"Were it possible to obliterate all distinction, women might become good doctors, but there is not to be thought of. Women certainly do excellent scientific work, but they are incapable of fighting with the excitement and responsibilities of the physician, and in the desperate situations in which we often find."

CALIFORNIA INTERESTS AT WASHINGTON, D.C.

A Lot of Matters of Interest to this State Now Attracting the Attention of Congress.

TRIBUNE CORRESPONDENCE.
WASHINGTON, Jan. 4.—When Congress assembled yesterday after the holiday recess the session opened with a bang of big guns. The battle over the discharge of the negro battalion was resumed with all the energy which characterized the late war between Japan and Russia, the present contest, however, being between Senator Foraker and the President. In expectation of the resumption of the struggle there was a very large crowd at the Capitol, and comparatively few could gain admittance to the Senate chamber. Conspicuous among these was a large number of colored people, who seem to think that the race question is the one in issue and this seemed to be the idea of Senator (Cullerson, Democratic Senator from Texas, who opened the fight with a somewhat impassioned defense of the President, in the course of which the question of race was more than once raised. Although the President has frequently emphatically lectured the "South" for holding strong opinions on the difference between races, the only defender of his course who has thus far appeared was compelled to make use of the arguments which he could command.

SOUTHERNER'S DEFENSE OF ROOSEVELT.
For a Republican President to be defended by a Democrat on grounds which the executive has emphatically condemned presented an unique situation during an administration which has been fruitful in surprises. What else may occur in course of the session to stir up and take notice during the present session cannot of course be predicted, but that more interesting events will happen is quite certain. Senator Foraker has just begun his campaign, and as he is one of the bravest and most skillful fighters it may confidently be expected that there will be many sharp encounters before it is determined whether the President has the right to dismiss the army at will, without a shadow of accountability to any one. If by any chance this right should be established, a very long step would be taken on the road to such centralization of power as would tend to lead to the virtual abolition of the Supreme Court and the law-making functions of Congress.

A VITAL ISSUE.
The question at issue is one of such vital importance that it will over-

REVIVAL OF GOEBEL FEUD

Socialists Plan to Kidnap ex-Governor Taylor and Carry Him Back to Kentucky.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Jan. 12.—Socialists plan to kidnap William S. Taylor, former Governor of Kentucky. The idea is to take him from Indianapolis to Kentucky for trial on the charge of murdering the late William Goebel, who was assassinated while making a contest for Taylor's seat as Governor in 1900.

An Appeal to Reason, a Socialist newspaper, offers $1000 reward for any persons who will kidnap and carry Mr. Taylor and take the fugitive politician to Kentucky. The kidnapping scheme is intended to be carried out as a test of a recent ruling of the Supreme Court of the United States in the Meyer-Haywood case. Meyer, Pettibone and Haywood, officers of the Western Federation of Miners in Colorado, were charged with complicity in the murder of Governor Steienguber of Idaho. They were arrested and taken out of Colorado, or, as the Socialists assert they were "kidnaped" to be tried in another state. The United States Supreme Court ruled that there was no violation of the Constitution in the arrest and deportation by force, or with connivance and fraud, of these Socialist workmen.

It is the purpose of Socialists to put the Taylor case up to the United States Supreme Court in the same way.

by the Government, for it is probable that District Attorney Devlin will be compelled to remain here until another week. He has been very busily engaged in the Department of Justice on this matter ever since his arrival, and will be still more busy during the rest of his stay. What is being done by the Attorney General the District Attorney is, of course, not at liberty to state, and it is therefore not known the exact phase the case will assume when taken before the Supreme Court. Where interest in the matter is taken not only in California, but throughout the entire Pacific Coast, is very evident here, and it is probable that the Administration realizes that it struck a false note in regard to the relation between the Japanese and American citizens.

NATURALIZATION OF JAPANESE.
If the President had read the bulletin of the Bureau of Labor, published last September, on the Japanese in Hawaii, it is very probable that he would have hesitated to suggest the naturalization of these Asiatics. Hawaii was the Japanese problem to dispose of and appearances seem to show that it must be disposed of soon. Here, as would later be the case in California and the Pacific Coast states, the industrial revolution is by no means the sole one or the most important. The political feature of Japanese immigration is fast coming to the front in Hawaii, as it would when ever Japanese are in large numbers, particularly should they be granted the privilege of naturalization. In the report referred to it is pointed out that in Hawaii the native-born Japanese are probably increasing more rapidly than any other nationality, and the power and influence of the Asiatic population is growing more rapidly than its numbers. So that, as the report says, "A native-born Japanese class is being added to the electorate very rapidly after a comparatively short period and if the Japanese born in the islands become a permanent population, eager to claim its citizenship the fear of some political domination by a single nationality will become a reality."

Unrestricted immigration from Japan, with naturalization, would surely bring this crisis upon California in a comparatively short time.

CALIFORNIA BUILDING STONES.
There has arisen a wide demand that the product of California quarries be used in the construction of government buildings in California. That we have building material of first quality and in abundance is well known, and that marble, granite, sandstone or other material should be brought from other states to erect Federal buildings is matter for legitimate comment. But it is pointed out by the Federal authorities that such buildings are erected under contract, and that the lowest bidder gets the work. Marble, granite, etc., therefore come under the laws and if the material comes from without the State it is because the owners of California quarries have failed to make their prices low enough. It would, therefore, seem that the whole matter rests with the California producers.

TOBACCO CULTURE.
The announcement that an expert from the Department of Agriculture would visit California this winter to look into the chances for successful tobacco culture in that State has aroused wide interest, and different locations are putting forth claims to official notice. It is probable that there are many widely separated areas where fine tobacco can be grown and it is to be hoped that this is true. The expert will undoubtedly examine all localities brought to his notice, if not too many for careful study. At all events, no region having reasonable prospects will be neglected.

As this letter is being sent out it is learned that John Bailey Stewart, Department of Agriculture expert in tobacco raising, will start for California tonight on his mission in connection with tobacco raising in California. Mr. Stewart has for many years given tobacco culture in the Connecticut valley very close study, and is thoroughly familiar with all methods of cultivation, soils, curing, etc. He is deeply interested in his new work in California, and hopes to be able to demonstrate the ability of the State to produce tobacco of first quality.

KLAMATH IRRIGATION PROJECT.
A short time ago the irrigation committee of the Klamath Chamber of Commerce wrote to Senator Perkins regarding the chances of the early and economic completion of the Klamath irrigation project. The matter was placed before the Secretary of the Interior, who states that the director of the Geological Survey has referred the matter to the supervising engineer in charge of the project, with directions to report.

WOODROW WILSON OPPOSED BY LABORITES
NEWARK, N. J., Jan. 12.—The Essex Trades Council went on record tonight as opposed to the possible candidacy of Woodrow Wilson for President of the United States, for the United States Senatorship, and a committee of three was appointed to treat on the subject. Resolutions which were presented recited that it was of vital importance to wage a war in the State to the effect that the next United States Senator should be a man at least in sympathy with their cause.

A Piano Sale for Two Days

We have about twenty or thirty used pianos which we are going to dispose of at greatly reduced prices considering their real value. We do not mean to infer that we have a KNABE, MASON & HAMLIN, STEINWAY or some other high-grade piano, as good as new, that we are going to offer you for $75 or $100, as this we consider would be an insult to your better judgment, and we do not wish to be stamped as a fake house by all of our competitors as well as the public in general; but when we advertise certain pianos at certain prices, you can depend upon it that we have the goods to deliver, and when you visit our store, providing you come before the goods are sold, you will get one of the following pianos at the prices for which they are advertised. Remember this sale is to last for two days only—Monday and Tuesday. Following is a partial list of these pianos, which are the specials for Monday.

One good Emerson Piano; we believe it to be a regular $375 piano, in good condition; price now $195
One $300 Hamilton Piano, good condition $180
One Wing & Son Piano, practically new $165
One Harrington Piano, regular price $425; now $300
One Kingsbury Piano; regular price $350; good as new $255
One fine little Ludwig Piano; oak case $285
One Schleicher Piano; good as new $195

THE STRATTON ESTATE INQUIRY

The Colorado Legislature is on the Trail of the Late Millionaire's Executor.

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo., Jan. 12.—The Colorado Legislature will investigate the work of the executors of the estate of Multi-millionaire Winfield Scott Stratton, Cripple Creek's gold king. A resolution which passed the Senate yesterday and which was introduced by Senator Campbell of Pueblo, provides for a committee of seven, which is to report within twenty days.

No charge of irregularity or incompetency has been made against the executors, collectively or individually, but they have been in operation for four years with no visible results so far. They claim that their time has been occupied with suits in court whose total aggregated the sum of $1,000,000. The last of these suits, that for $355,000 inheritance tax in which Colorado is plaintiff, is the last, and settlement of the estate shall say and report will be made as soon as this is adjusted.

The executors are also trustees of the Millionaire Stratton home for the erection of whose buildings a million dollars was set apart, and to whose endowment the remainder of the estate was devoted. This home will be undertaken as soon as the inheritance tax suit is closed.

D. H. Rice and Carl Chamberlain of Colorado Springs, and Tyson S. Dines of Denver, Senator Campbell reports that following who regard the home as a chemical if not impossible. His resolution provides that in the event of the home's failure to materialize, the estate shall revert to the State of Colorado.

SAVED FROM DOOMED SHIP

Brave Rescue Effected in Blinding Storm in Far North.

VICTORIA, B. C., Jan. 12.—"Passenger with many people wrecked near Clallam bay, snowing heavily and bitterly cold and looks as though all would be lost and nothing can save vessel."

Such was the foreboding bark by the wireless operator here early this morning when business opened with Fort Casey, the station just across the straits of San Juan de Fuca.

It constituted the first intimating locality of the loss of the well-known mail and passenger steamship, Alice Gertrude, Charles Kallstrom master, which for some time past has plied between Seattle and Cape Flattery, serving Fort Townsend, Argoes, Crescent and other along the straits towns. Happily, first reports as to inevitably heavy fatality were not justified, thanks to heroic efforts by volunteer rescue craft. The steamer, however, was doomed. She went to pieces within a few hours and Clallam is now strewn with her wreckage.

The accident occurred between 10 and 11 o'clock last night, when missing her course owing to the thick weather, a snowstorm raging and the night bitterly cold, the Alice Gertrude drove on Slip Point Rocks, near Clallam bay. A heavy swell and pounding sea rendered the position of the ship and all on board hazardous in the extreme, and a volunteer boat crew risked their lives in making a landing in order to seek assistance. The predicament of the vessel was made known in Port Townsend and the tugs Lorne and Wyndia dispatched thence with the revenue cutter Arcata. It was not until 10 o'clock this morning that the removal of the thirty odd passengers was effected and in less than two hours thereafter the Alice Gertrude had pounded to pieces.

No lives were lost although many of the passengers are suffering severely as a result of nervous shock, exposure and exhaustion. The Alice Gertrude was owned by the Puget Sound Navigation Company.

Miss Grace M. Varcoe crossed the Atlantic twenty-one times as an agent of an English diamond concern, and on each trip she carried with her gems valued at $150,000 to $200,000.

BALL LEAGUE WILL OPEN TODAY

The mid-winter baseball league opens today at St. Mary's College. Last Sunday was the day set for this event, but owing to the inclemency of the weather it was postponed.

In the opening game, which will begin at 12 o'clock, the Phoenix team will cross bats with the Gallagher-Marsh aggregation and a fast game is looked for, as each team has a reputation for hustling. Another fast game will start at 2 o'clock, between the All Stars of Oakland and the Gattner-Matters of San Francisco.

NEW LINE IS IN OPERATION

East Shore and Suburban Company Running Cars on New Division.

RICHMOND, Jan. 12.—The East Shore and Suburban Railway began operations this morning on its new Sixth street extension. The line at present extends to Pennsylvania street, but as soon as material arrives it will be extended to the factory of the Schrock Furniture Company.
A call from the farmers along the San Joaquin river for the use of the dredger "Rough and Ready" which has been acquired for the purpose of clearing the land and canal company for the last few weeks was responded to by the president of the company, H. C. Cutting, who generously loaned the dredger to the farmers. The farmers, who are leaving the levees that they are in grave danger as a result of the recent rains, and their desire to use the machine to repair small breaks, that their farms may be saved from inundation and consequent financial loss, are cutting through the levee from out the canal near this city, as he is anxious to push the work to an early completion. The appeal of the farmers caused him to accede, after exacting a promise that the machine would not be absent more than fifteen days.

SUFFERED MUCH FROM HUNGER

Coast Line Passengers in Ten Trains Arrive in Los Angeles.

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 12.—Ten delayed trains from San Francisco and one steamer loaded to the limit have arrived in Los Angeles within the past twelve hours, bringing from 500 to 1000 hungry and travel-weary passengers, who have been held stormbound for nearly a week. Most of them left San Francisco last Tuesday, arriving today. They report flood conditions much worse than they have been elsewhere. The lowlands of Salinas Valley, they say, are a vast lake. A rush of water from the Arroyo Seco and upper Salinas has flooded thousands of acres of valuable lands, destroying food and potato crops, drowning cattle and other livestock, and in several instances nearly causing the loss of human life. In one place, it is related, five Chinaman farmhands were attempting to escape in boats which were capsized. From here they were rescued some time later from a salooner's barge by a man with a lantern. One of the Chinamen subsequently died from exposure. Passengers say they suffered severely from hunger. All food on the steamer was cleaned out and lunch counters at stations along the way quickly depleted. Many of those arriving today had eaten as far south as San Luis Obispo when they were turned back to San Jose and brought down over the valley line. Others left Santa Barbara and were there put on board the Santa Rosa and brought to Los Angeles by water. Conditions between this city and Santa Barbara, they say, are of the worst. It will be many days before the Southern Pacific can restore its trains on the coast line. The damage to farming interests and property in general is very large.
Many streams are still out of their banks.

NEW YORK, Jan. 12.—A year or so ago Sadie Silver graduated from Gouverneur Hospital and found work as a trained nurse in a hospital. A month ago she was dropped from the staff along with other nurses and has since tried every possible means of getting work.
She took a room with friends at 451 Grand street while she continued her search. Yesterday Morris Walters, a porter, smelled gas near her room. He climbed in through a window and found the woman unconscious on the bed. She was taken a prisoner for treatment to the hospital from which she graduated.

FIRST TRAINS NEXT TUESDAY

Coast Division Still Blocked by Washouts Below Santa Barbara.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 12.—Train service on the Coast division of the Southern Pacific system is still completely blocked by the washouts between Ventura and Santa Barbara, and at the offices of the company today it was stated that no trains will be able to make the run through to Los Angeles before Tuesday next. The most serious break is at Soledad, where there is a washout 13 feet wide and 100 feet long.
Ten passengers who were storm-bound at Santa Barbara were forwarded to Los Angeles this morning by steamer. The Salinas river is still running very high, but a message from the inspector at that part of the break today stated that it had fallen eight feet during the night. Three hundred men are at work along the track, with instructions to exert all possible speed to rehabilitate the service.

ROOSEVELT URGES RELIEF IN COLORADO RIVER VALLEY

Declares Two Millions Must Be Expended at Once to Repair Damages From Break.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12.—The President today sent to the senate a message urging some action by congress toward remedying the situation caused by the break in the Colorado river, four miles below the international boundary line in Mexico, and which threatens the property interests in the Imperial Valley of California.

extreme as to be impracticable of remedy. Probably with an expenditure of $2,000,000, he says, the river can be restored to its former channel, and held there indefinitely. The question of what sum, if any, should be paid to the Southern Pacific Railroad company for work done since the break of November 4, is one for future consideration. The President says:

WHAT PRESIDENT SAYS.

"The reclamation service should be authorized to take steps at once for the construction of an irrigation project, under the terms of the reclamation act, for the lands in the Imperial valley and in the Lower Colorado river valley.

"To accomplish this the United States should acquire the rights of the California Development company and its subsidiary corporations in the United States and Mexico upon such reasonable terms as shall protect the interests of the government and of the water users. The United States should obtain by convention with Mexico the right to carry water through that country under reasonable conditions."

Referring to the California Development company, the President says it began its work by making representations to possible settlers of the great benefits to be derived by taking up this land. The claims were not only extravagant, he says, but in many cases it appears that willful misrepresentations were made.

MONEY FROM SETTLERS.

"The money thus obtained from settlers was not used in permanent development," the President says, "but apparently disappeared either in profits to the principal promoters or in the numerous subsidiary companies which to a certain extent fed upon the parent company, or served to obscure its operations, such as a construction company, a company to promote settlement, and a company to handle securities of the various other corporations."

Senator Flint talked with the President and Secretary of State today regarding the matter and said that he would shortly introduce a bill to carry the President's recommendations into effect.

SIXTY DAYS FOR STEALING BLANKET

Confinement in the city prison for thirty days was not sufficient to discourage the criminal tendencies of William Berger, and upon being released he went out and stole a blanket. He was again arrested and pleaded guilty in department one of the police court this morning to a charge of petit larceny. Police Judge Smith sentenced Berger to sixty days in the city prison.

RIDES IN POLICE PATROL FOR A CAR

NEW YORK, Jan. 12.—"Morning," said Michael Ladane to Policeman Becker in Essex Market court yesterday gripping the rail and placing a finger to his head, giving an imitation of a sailor's salute. He had insisted on a patrol ride with a batch of arrested men, taken at the Bowery and Division street.

GIRL ILLUSTRATOR SUES SENATOR PLATT

NEW YORK, Jan. 12.—Judgment will be entered in the Westchester County Clerk's office at White Plains today by Margaret Eckerson, an illustrator, for $500 and costs, against Senator Thomas C. Platt, as president of the United States Express Company.

FAIRBANKS ESCAPES AN INDICTMENT

BOSTON, Jan. 12.—The Grand Jury today reported "no bill" in the case of Wilson H. Fairbanks, former Massachusetts commissioner, in the Lewis & Clark Exposition at Portland, who was charged with forgery in connection with the accounts of his office. The charges were made by District Attorney Morin during the latter's canvass for the governorship last fall.

Fairbanks, who is now commissioner to the Jamestown Exposition, has sued Morin, alleging libel.

ATTRACTION TO RUN AIRSHIP

Strange Flying Machine Has Been Invented by a Frenchman.

PARIS, Jan. 12.—A flying machine, which uses as its flying power the attraction of the earth, has just been invented by a Frenchman named Bohenrieth, a native of Roubaix. The machine consists of a main platform surmounted by a balloon filled with gas. In order to raise it from the earth, three pair of wings are fixed to the frame, while the front of the machine is supplied with another pair of wings which are intended to be used as a rudder.

The machine has no propeller, but is carried forward by the force of its own weight. It is lifted into the air until the required height is attained, and then tipped downward by the pilot, which causes the rudder to come into rapid motion, and the airship is carried forward.

It has taken M. Bohenrieth ten years to perfect his invention, which he hopes the French Government will buy.

Parisian playgoers have been startled by the announcement that Sarah Bernhardt is shortly to play the part of Mephistopheles in a version of "Faust," which is being prepared by Henry Bataille, the talented young playwright.

Before playing Mephistopheles, however, and directly after the "Vierge d'Avant" is taken off, Mme. Bernhardt is to play the part of a hunchback jester in a play entitled "The Buffoons."

MUSLIN UNDERWEAR

Selling of the Most Sensational Kind at Kahns' Tomorrow

☐ The clean-up sale is on full blast.

☐ It hits every department, it strikes into every corner of the great big busy Kahn establishment—it has spared neither profit nor worth, for when clean-up time comes at Kahns' there's no time for direct profit making—room is worth money to us and clean-ups make room—clean cut, full assortments are worth money to us and clean-ups make these. Kahns' don't believe in half-hearted methods, in a discount here or there, for the old ways are the slow ways and slow ways don't fit into the strenuous spirit of this, the fastest growing store in California.

☐ We want action, quick, prompt, decisive—a deep cut in price, an aggressive truthful advertisement, a ready response from the public, a quick sale and then—a clean shelf. That's the Kahn way—that's the new way.

Muslin Underwear occupies the center of the stage this week—beautiful garments at reductions that guarantee an enormous crowd and a rapid sale

By all means attend the Muslin Underwear Sale early in the day. Don't wait until the afternoon crowds assemble for we simply cannot serve you properly at such times.

Do You Have Shoe Troubles? DO YOUR FEET HURT?

Hundreds of people are suffering right now with their feet—The severity of the weather is one reason and the lack of good experienced shoe fitters is another—

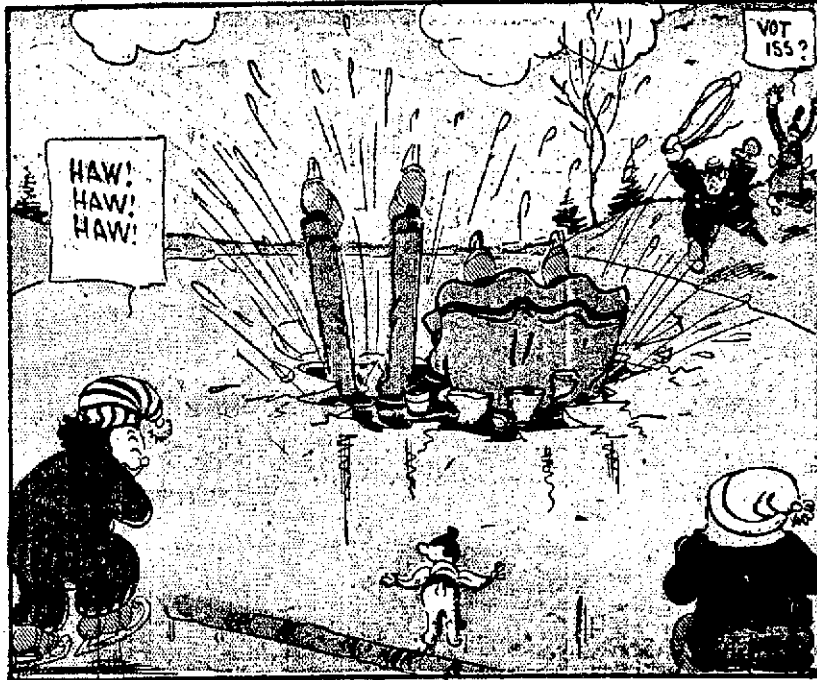

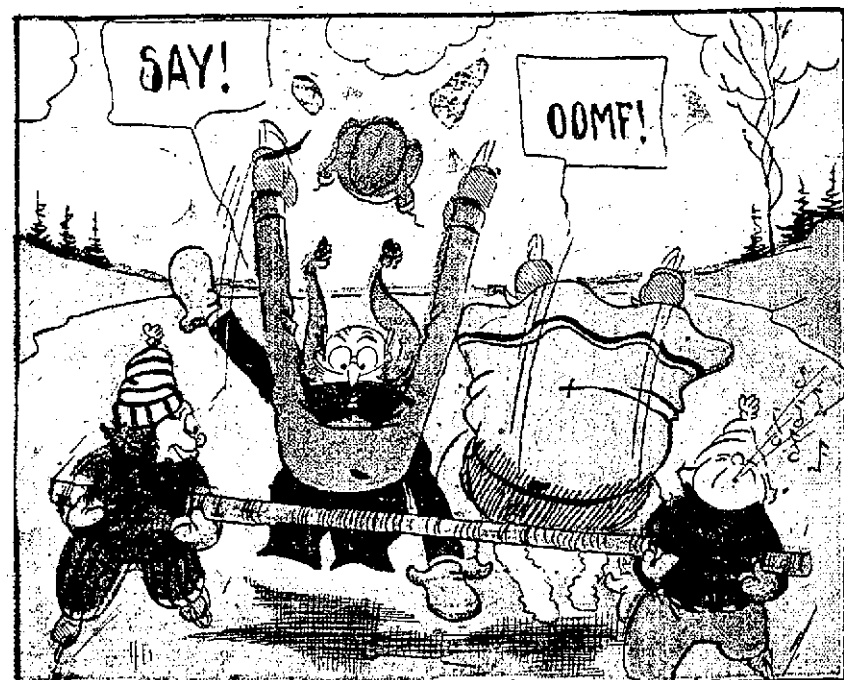

Shoes are often sold that are little short of implements of torture—inexperienced salesmen, selecting from limited stocks or broken assortments have to sell something and the sale is made at the expense of the comfort of the purchaser.

We have adopted a different plan—In our Sorosis Shoe Department we have the best corps of experienced shoe fitters in this city—There is absolutely no question about it—We have spared no expense in gathering about us good men—

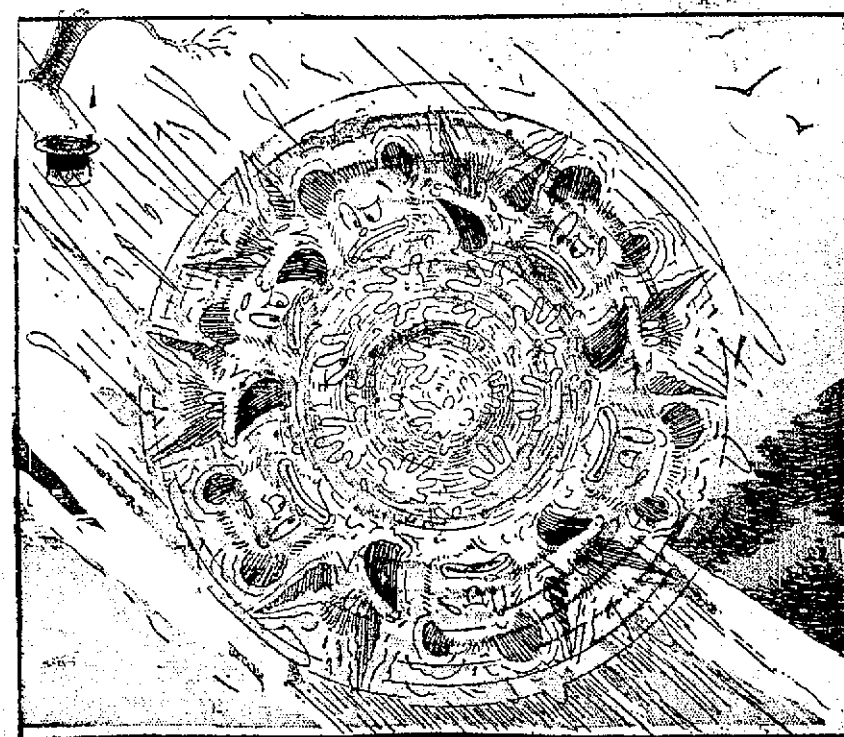

Sorosis Shoes are the most comfortable shoes in the world if fitted correctly. There are scores of sizes and hundreds of styles and with the men we have and the stock we have we can, with your co-operation, fit you to the most comfortable pair of shoes you ever wore. We sell only ladies' and children's shoes.

The Two PIGGIES who WENT on a PICNIC

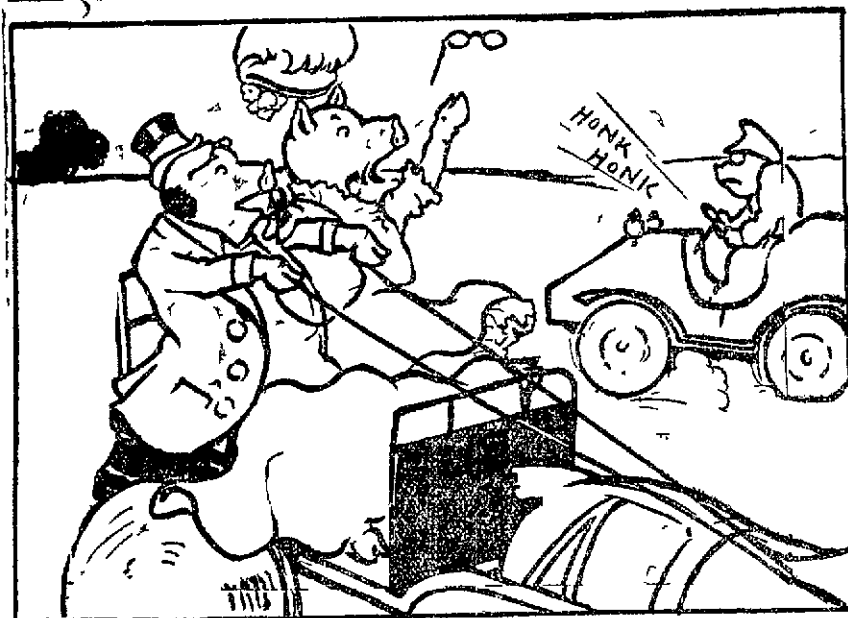

There was a funny little pig—
His name was Spotty Black,
He very often ran away,
But always would come back.

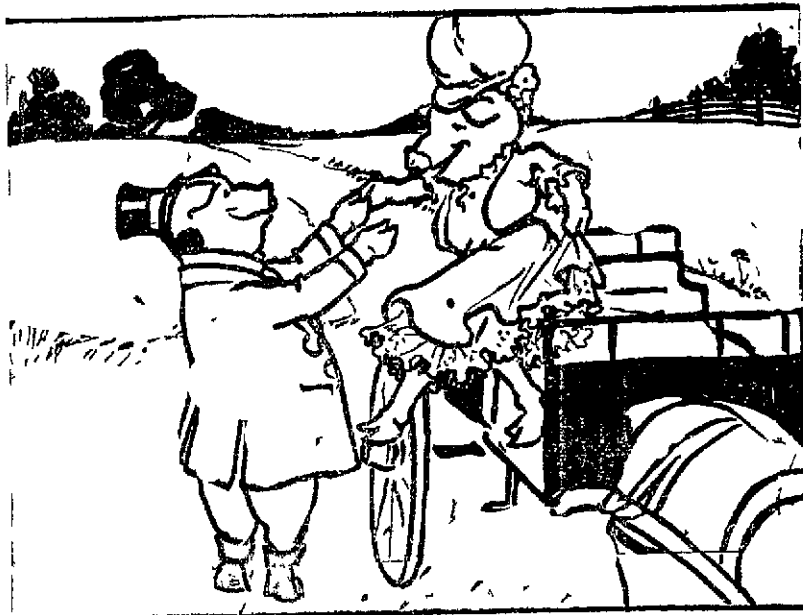

One day it came to his wise head,
To take a little drive.
He asked Miss White Pig to go, too,
And planned to start at five.

Now, White never ran away,
And rarely did she stray;
So she was not well acquainted
With new things of the day.

Hence, as they swiftly sped along
And met an au'tomobile,
The sight so scared poor White
That she began to squeal.

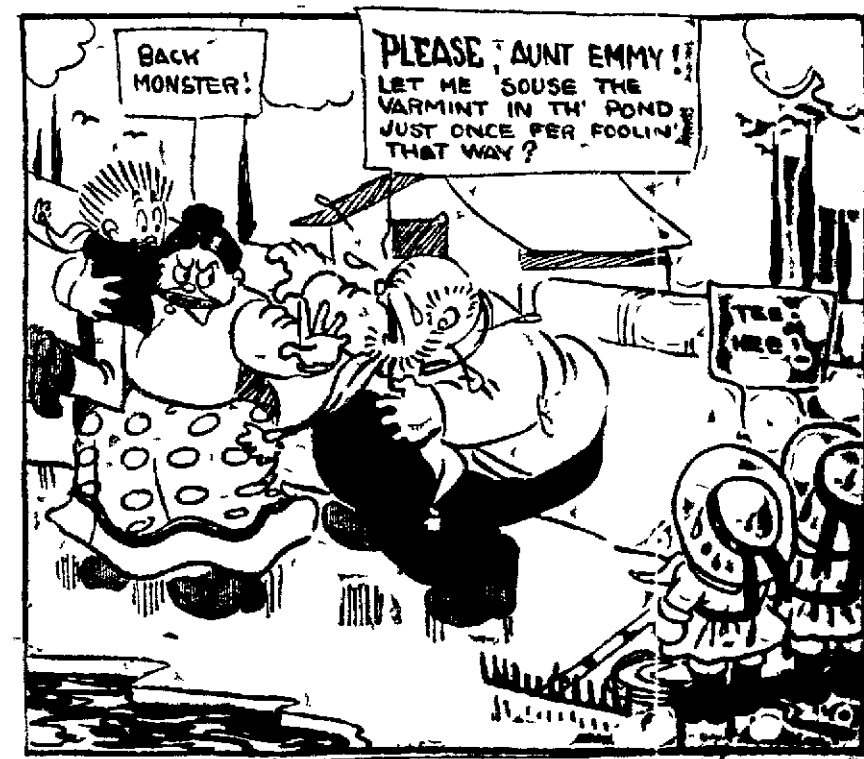

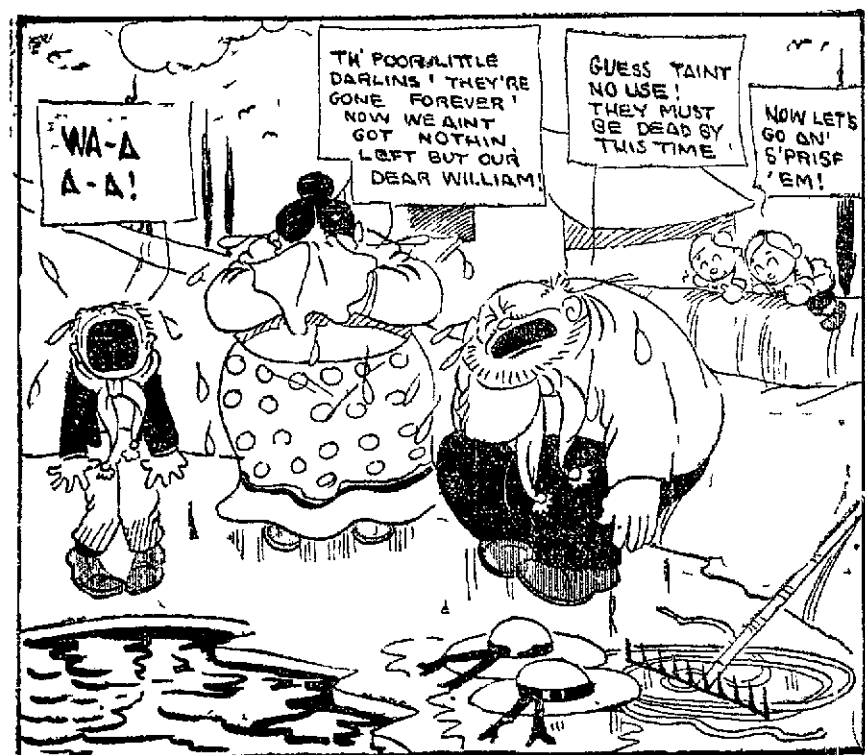

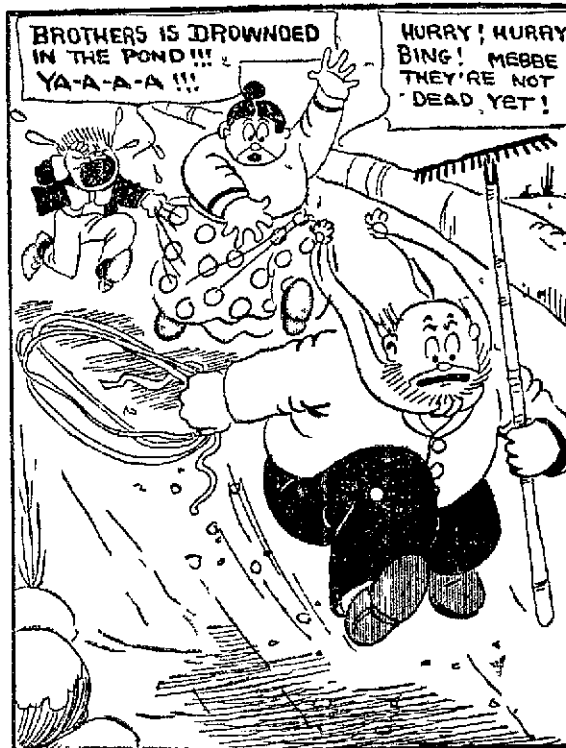

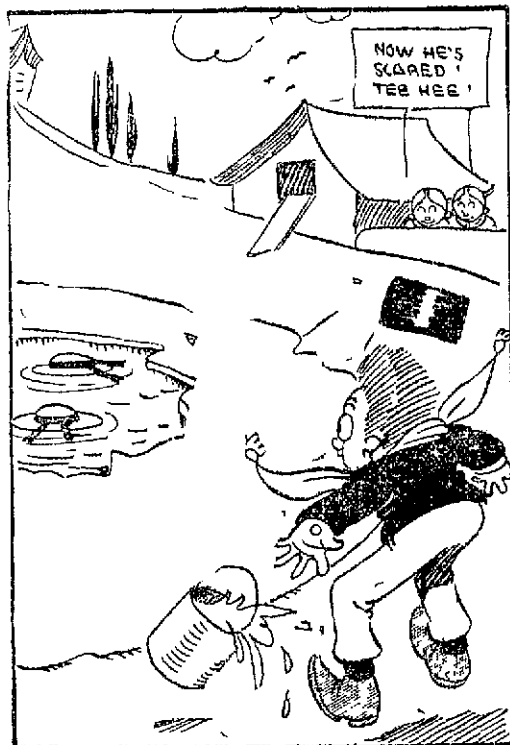

Said she—"I am not in a faint,
As you might well suppose—
'Twas enough to make me nervous
As everybody knows."

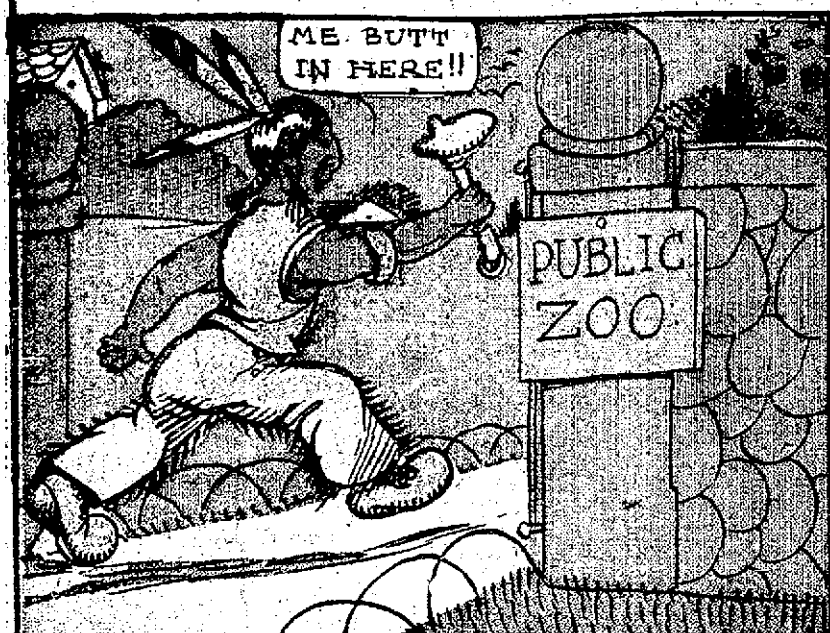

"But my fright is now quite over—
This air is very fine;
We'll halt by this sweet clover
And now proceed to dine."

BIG SCALPER VISITS THE ZOOLOGICAL GARDEN

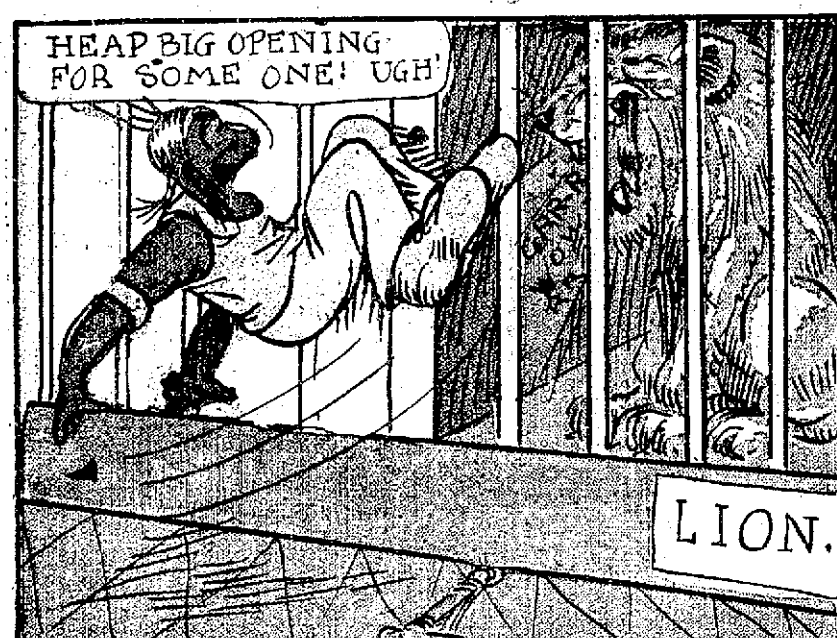

Big Scalper once by accident,
Ran through a Public Zoo

And saw so many funny things
He didn't know what to do,

The Lion and the Tiger He Had never seen before,

And nearly had a fainting Spell
When they began to roar,

Cried He - "It's happy Hunting Ground
Me make a great big Kill"

Just then Two Keepers locked Him up Against Poor Scalper's Will.
